'Modest' Inaugural Eyed

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter is inviting "several hundred thousand people" to see him inaugurated in Washington at a ceremony he wants kept "modest" and "democratic," an aide says.

"We want to take away some of the aspects of a coronation," said Carter spokesman Rex Granum on Friday. The President-elect desires a "people-oriented" inauguration, he said.

Carter, however, will wear formal clothes and a top hat, ride in the inaugural parade, dance at an inaugural ball and hold receptions for the diplomatic corps and Congress.

Aides said the VIP section of seats at the Capitol for the Jan. 20 ceremony will be smaller than usual, and there will be fewer official receptions and parties. The bleacher seats along the Pennsylvania Avenue parade route probably will be free.

Carter doesn't expect everyone he invites to show up, Granum said. "Obviously they can't have several hundred thousand physically at the swearing-in," he said.

Carter discussed inauguration plans Friday with two coordinators of the event at the only meeting he plans on the subject.

Later, Carter met with transition chief Jack H. Watson Jr., and his campaign director, Hamilton Jordan, to discuss the more pressing matter of staffing the top 200 jobs of his administration.

Watson and Jordan told reporters afterwards that Carter will not rush into choosing his Cabinet and filling other top government posts. They said they realize the appointments need to be made quickly enough to give the new officials time to take hold of their new duties.

The two advisers said Carter will be involved with the most important appointments and is likely to interview several prospects for each Cabinet post. Jordan said Carter will make those decisions "slowly, cautiously and deliberately," as he did in his choice of Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., as running mate.

Meanwhile, members of the Plains Baptist Church which Carter has attended all his life, worried over the decision they will have to make in a church conference Sunday morning on whether or not to admit blacks.

Carter will attend the meeting and has said repeatedly that he favors repeal of a 1965 vote that bars admittance and membership to "Negroes and civil rights leaders." Aides say Carter is optimistic that church members will resolve the issue by making all Baptists eligible for membership, regardless of race.

Oswald, Cuban Officials Linked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department reportedly has uncovered a 1964 memo in which late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said he was told Lee Harvey Oswald discussed in advance with Cuban officials his plan to kill President John F. Kennedy.

The FBI and the Justice Department refused to discuss the report, which was carried in today's editions of the Washington Post.

The newspaper quoted informed sources as saying that Hoover wrote in the memo that he was told of the discussions between Oswald and the Cubans by a highly reliable informant who learned about them personally from Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

It has been disclosed in documents recently released by the CIA under the Freedom of Information Act that Oswald visited the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City less than two months before Kennedy was killed in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

Oswald was arrested shortly after the assassination and was himself killed by Jack Ruby two days later.

There has been speculation that if Cuba was involved in the Kennedy assassination, it was to retaliate for CIA attempts on Castro's life.

Castro has denied that Cuba played any part in Kennedy's death.

The Post quoted sources as saying the Hoover memo was addressed to the Warren Commission, which investigated the assassination. But the sources were not certain if the memo ever reached the commission.

The Post reported that sources said the memo came to light only recently as the result of information brought to the attention of the Justice Department that prompted Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi to order a search of FBI files.

The newspaper said its sources could not say, if the memo is accurate, whether Castro learned of Oswald's intentions before Kennedy's death.

The Post also said its sources speculated that the informant referred to in the Hoover memo was Rolando Cubela. Cubela, a former high Cuban official, has been identified as a 1961

CIA recruit who figured in the agency's plots on Castro's life.

A House committee that was formed to investigate the assassinations of both Kennedy and the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. is scheduled to hold its next meeting on Monday.

Former U.S. prosecutor Richard A. Sprague, who was picked to direct the investigation, has said the committee may take years to complete its work.

Allegations that Oswald was in some way working for the CIA have been circulating since 1963. They have been discounted by CIA officials who claimed they were part of a Communist propaganda campaign.

Documents disclosed last month by the CIA showed that the spy agency once considered using Oswald as a source of intelligence information about the Soviet Union. That disclosure conflicted with sworn testimony before the Warren Commission by Richard Helms, then a branch chief and later CIA director, who said the agency never had "even contemplated" any contacts with Oswald.

Medicare Computer Safeguards Eyed; Privacy At Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says it is using computer safeguards to prevent insurance companies that handle Medicare claims from gaining access to confidential information about Social Security beneficiaries.

The safeguards were installed in a new computer system that already links two private insurance company offices to Social Security data banks, the Social Security Administration said Friday. The safeguards will be included when the computer link is extended to 17 more private insurance offices in the next two years, the SSA said.

Reps. John E. Moss, D-Calif., and Charles G. Rose, D-N.C., complained earlier this year that the new computer link could give the firms access to Social Security records listing people's income, assets, marital status and other information irrelevant to Medicare claims.

But Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell has told the two congressmen that the new safeguard system, installed Oct. 23, will guarantee that private firms obtain health files only.

Cardwell said there was no indication that the two companies had violated anyone's privacy in the new program, called Social Security Administration Data Acquisition and Response System.

The government hires about 125 private companies to examine and pay the bills for 25 million elderly and disabled Medicare patients. They are called intermediaries in the case of hospital bills and carriers if they handle medical bills.

Three telecommunications systems have been used over the last 10 years to provide the companies with Medicare health insurance records to process the claims. Sixteen months ago, the new computer system was installed at offices of Aetna Life and Casualty Co. in Fort Washington, Pa., and the Hawaii Medical Services Association in Honolulu.

Until Oct. 23, the two companies were encouraged to use the code of the nearest Social Security district office to gain computer access if their own channel or mode was busy. That would have given the private company unlimited access to beneficiary records.

But now a company switching to the district office's mode gets only the health benefits information, the SSA said. Any attempt to open other files would be automatically denied and government security investigators would be notified, Social Security said.

"We are doing everything we can to improve the security of these computers," a SSA spokesman said. "We have an ongoing internal work group looking for risk areas and ways to reduce risks."

Private contractors need health benefits information before processing a claim to determine such things as whether a Medicare patient has paid all his deductible costs and whether he is eligible for government payment of the bill.

Recount Possibility Still Alive In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A recount of the presidential election in Ohio is expected if the official canvass confirms that Jimmy Carter won by less than 1/2 of 1 per cent, the Franklin County Republican chairman says.

Ohio's 88 counties are still reporting official results to Secretary of State Ted. W. Brown who expects to have a final count within 10 days.

Unofficial results had Carter topping President Ford by about 5,000 votes, or .13 per cent.

If the final tally remains under .5 per cent, Franklin County GOP Chairman Russell Leach said in a letter to Brown, "I expect within the time limited by law to file a formal request for a recount of the votes in all precincts of Ohio in the race that determined the election of Ohio's Presidential Electors."

Leach was one of 25 Republican candidates for elector. His request for a recount will have to be made within five days of the time that Brown certifies the results.

"I shall probably invite other Republican candidates for Presidential elector to file similar requests," Leach said.

By Ohio law, when a statewide election outcome is under 1/2 of 1 per cent the recount is conducted at state expense, such as in the case of former Gov. John J. Gilligan's loss to Gov. James A. Rhodes in 1974.

Asst. Secretary of State James Marsh said contingency planning was already under way in anticipation of a possible recount.

A reversal of Ohio's 25 electoral college votes would leave Carter with 272 electoral votes, just two over the margin of victory.

"In light of what I am proposing," Leach told Brown, "I request that you take all appropriate precautions to safeguard ballots and voting machines."

Marsh said, "we've already taken safeguards. We sent mailgrams to the county election boards on election night advising them to safeguard ballots in light of the close election."

Gilmore May Die On Holiday

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gary Mark Gilmore could face a firing squad by Thanksgiving if the Utah Board of Pardons upholds his death sentence next week, the state attorney general-elect says.

The board is scheduled to consider at its regular hearing Wednesday the case of the 35-year-old convicted killer, who says he prefers death to prison. The board's chairman has said a decision is likely the same day.

Robert B. Hansen, who becomes attorney general next year, said in a telephone interview Friday that a law requiring a 30-day lapse after sentencing probably would not apply to a rescheduling. Gilmore's original execution date of Monday was canceled by Gov. Calvin L. Rampton, who said he wanted the board to decide whether capital punishment was "appropriate."

Hansen, now deputy attorney general, said he believed that if the board upheld the death penalty, Gilmore's trial judge could order execution "soon, maybe not sooner than seven days."

Power Plant Permits Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Construction permits for eight proposed power plants along the Ohio River probably will be issued before an environmental impact study of their effect on the region is completed, a federal official says.

Russell Train, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, said, however, that "since these plants are only the tip of the iceberg in terms of the development proposed for the region," EPA believes it is "more fruitful . . . to focus on the entire iceberg, not just the tip."

Largely in response to expressions of concern by Ohio Valley residents about the proliferation of power plants, the Senate Appropriations Committee ordered the study last year.

In a letter to Sen. Walter "Dee" Huddleston, D-Ky., Train said that consideration will be given over the next few years to the construction of at least 50 power plants on the Ohio River bordering Kentucky.

He also said that neither EPA nor any other federal agency has an established procedure for delaying approval of permits.

Mostly sunny today with a high near 40, clear and cold tonight with a low near 20, and mostly sunny Sunday with a high in the mid 40s. There is a 10 per cent chance of snow flurries today and Sunday and no chance tonight.

DISCUSS DENTAL HEALTH — Mrs. Angie Svinarich, a registered dental hygienist who works for Dr. Robert Phillips, 147 Pinckney St., culminated a series on proper dental care by showing Head Start youngsters how to properly brush their teeth. She also presented each child with a toothbrush during the demonstration. Arts and crafts, stories, dramatic plays and food experiments were centered around discussions on Good Tooth Foods and Bad Tooth Foods during the week by the Head Start staff. The children also took part in the preparation and sampling of foods from the four basic food groups. Self-care oral hygiene is emphasized daily in the Head Start classroom teaching after meals.

Ration Evaluation Begins Fifth Year

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

The Ohio Livestock Ration Evaluation Program begins its fifth year this fall with an impressive record of assisting Ohio dairy, beef, and sheep farmers with their feeding programs.

According to Dr. D. E. Pritchard, the program's coordinator at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, more than 4,000 feed samples were analyzed for some 1,750 Ohio producers (75 per cent dairymen) in 1975. The program has been offered to Buckeye sheep producers since September, 1975, and nearly 100 have participated.

By submitting feed samples and a fact sheet about the animals being fed, a producer can have rations evaluated for up to six different animal types. These include lactating dairy cows, dry dairy cows, dairy heifers, finishing steers, replacement beef heifers, lactating beef cows, dry beef cows, non-pregnant ewes, pregnant or lactating ewes, replacement ewes or rams, and finishing lambs.

Feedstuffs are analyzed for dry matter, total crude protein, calcium, phosphorus, potassium, magnesium, manganese, iron, copper, and zinc. Total digestible nutrients (TDN) and sulfur contents are estimated from standard feed nutrient values. The computer calculates the total amounts of these nutrients fed daily per animal and compares the amounts with standard nutrient requirements for that type of animal.

One problem which the program has uncovered is the underfeeding of energy when hay crops are fed. On the other hand, too much energy with a lack of protein has been found to be a problem with some corn silages. Mineralwise, some dairy rations have

News For Homemakers

By BEVERLY BECHTEL
County Extension Agent
Home Economics

The energy situation should be of real concern to every American. At a recent agents' conference, we received information from national energy policy specialists and economists. We came away with a sobering impression of real concern. About 50 per cent of our oil is still imported. Canada and Venezuela are cutting back on oil sales (Canada plans to be shipping us no oil by 1982), leaving us pretty much at the mercy of such countries as Nigeria and the arab States. Strangely enough, when surveys are done, at least half our people feel there is no energy crisis. Yet 70 per cent of those responding feel there soon will be.

National leaders are concerned especially about the next 25 years, because solar and nuclear energy are not expected to be able to really contribute as energy sources until the next century. Every homemaker can help reduce our nation's oil dependency by making an all-out effort to use energy carefully. It doesn't matter what kind of energy you use. Whether it is oil, gas or electricity, they are all in limited supply.

If you look at national averages, about 19 per cent of all our energy is used at home. When you break this down, space heating takes 57 per cent, water heating 15 per cent, cooking 6 per cent, clothes drying 2 per cent, refrigeration 6 per cent, air conditioning 4 per cent, and all other 10 per cent. These figures tell you that real energy savings must come from the major areas of heating and water heating.

The following are some latest energy research points to help you cut down on energy use. Some will be new to you!

1. Setting back the thermostat at night does save energy. Setting back 5 degrees for 8 hours can save about 8 per cent on the fuel bill. Setting back 10 degrees for 8 hours can mean a 12 per cent savings. (Study by Honeywell Corp.)
2. Fluorescent light bulbs produce nearly four times as much light as incandescent lights. However, one research study reports that fluorescent bulbs may cause mood changes in some persons who are sensitive to this type of light.
3. Fluorescent bulbs do use less energy than incandescent bulbs.
4. Only 5 per cent of all energy used in homes is used for lighting. It is very difficult to reduce the energy bill by keeping the lights turned down. This discourages people. Most savings could come from reducing heating of air and water.
5. It used to be said that if you were only going to be gone an hour, to leave fluorescent lights burning because it took more energy to turn them back on than to "run" them an hour. But these lights have been improved. Now they are more efficient. Now, it is recommended that if you are going to be out of a room more than 15 minutes, to turn off the fluorescent lights and turn them back on when you return.
6. Cold water wash is not recommended by OSU for hardly anything, shown a calcium deficiency, and at the same time, more than the required amount of phosphorus. All these situations can cause possible health problems if not corrected.

Pritchard advises producers to ask for an optional crude protein test on any hay or haylage which has undergone a high temperature curing process. Cattle will usually eat these heat-damaged feeds well, but the nutritional value will be reduced from expected levels. Damaged hay will probably be moldy with a dark color. Warning signals for haylage are a caramelized or tobacco smell and a brownish color.

The first 4 years of the Ohio Livestock Ration Evaluation Program have been beneficial to many dairymen and some beef and sheep producers. Pritchard says it has helped them to more accurately balance their rations, improve animal performance and health, and in many cases reduce feed costs.

Producers should contact their county Extension agent to obtain the necessary materials for submitting feed samples. Many feed industry representatives, veterinarians, and vocational agriculture instructors also have program information. Cost of the standard analysis remains $12 per feed sample submitted. Optional tests are available at a modest fee.

The Ration Evaluation Program, sponsored jointly by the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service, The Ohio State University, and the OARDC is a part of the Research-Extension Analytical Laboratory (REAL) located on the OARDC campus. In addition to ration evaluation, the REAL Lab combines the services of the Ohio Soil Testing Lab and the Ohio Plant Analysis Laboratory. A new sludge analysis program will be offered in mid-1977.

especially soiled clothing or those infected. In most "cold" settings, the water is only 33-80 degrees F, depending on weather. The effectiveness of most laundry products is very poor in water under 60 degrees, even "cold water" detergents. Bacteria survival is much greater in a cold water wash. Fungus that causes athletes foot survives up to temperatures of 140 degrees F. This is true of some viruses and then they are spread throughout the laundry. In most washers, a "medium" wash temperature is about 130 degrees F and "hot" is 140-150 degrees F and up. A cold water rinse is O.K. for all types of laundry. You don't need heated water to rinse well.

7. The most energy-efficient pans are those with straight sides, flat bottoms. Aluminum clad stainless steel pans heat the most quickly and evenly.

Incidentally, studies are showing that you do not need special pans for the latest models of ceramic-topped ranges, so you could use energy-efficient pans with those, too.

And So It Grows

Now that the garden and fruit spray programs are finished for the year, check out your "home use" pesticides and store them properly.

Cleanup and dispose of empty or near empty containers. Rinse empty containers with water three times and drain. Then dispose of the container by burying or identifying for your trash disposal service to dispose of in an approved landfill. Empty pesticide bags and cartons can be burned, unless the law prohibits such in your area, but you must keep away from the toxic smoke.

Break, crush or otherwise destroy glass, plastic and metal containers and bury them in an isolated place of approved sanitary landfill. Large metal containers may be reclaimed and/or recycled where such facilities are available. Never re-use any empty container for any other purpose than its original intent.

Store unused pesticides in tightly closed original container in a locked cabinet, room or building away from children, pets and livestock. Make sure labels are intact and the container is not torn or leaking. Storage areas should be dry, well ventilated and maintained at temperatures above freezing. Do not store with food, feed, seed, fertilizer or water supplies and keep different pesticides separated. Container labels often give general and specific information to relative storage and disposal.

Pruning Roses

Normally, severe winters in Ohio kill rose canes down to the soil or mulch line. Then, it is a simple practice to cut them back by removing all dead or damaged wood. If damage appears on one side of the cane only, remove the cane since the damaged area will ultimately affect the growth of new shoots.

Disregarding severe winter damage, there are a few pruning practices that must be performed. One is to remove canes that have been broken or damaged by insects or diseases. Another is to remove one or two canes that may be rubbings, and a third to remove those canes that are spindly or less in diameter than the size of a lead pencil.

After pruning to these general recommendations, cut hybrid teas, floribundas and grandifloras to a height of 18 to 24 inches or to a height that is in balance with the rose bed, if surrounded by a hedge planting.

Climbing roses are generally pruned according to the basic or first three practices given previously. In addition, there may be some very old, heavy canes which are not producing many leaves and blooms. These can be cut out, letting new canes take their place.

As for height, pruning is limited only to keeping the plant in bounds.

Sunken U.S. Jet Finally Salvaged

LONDON (AP) — The F14 Tomcat that went to the bottom of the stormy North Atlantic carrying a supersecret missile has been raised by a West German salvage ship, ending a two-month effort that cost the U.S. Navy $1.7 million.

The $20-million jet fighter was minus its landing gear and right wing and was "scraped, dented, rusty and wet" when the salvage ship Taurus brought it to the surface Thursday, the Navy said.

The wreckage was being taken to the British naval base at Rosyth, on the east coast of Scotland, to be prepared for shipment to the United States.

Fall Soil Testing May Mean Better Crops In 1977

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Although killing frosts have just about ended this year's growing season, it's time to start preparing for next year's field and garden crops.

There is still time to take samples and have them tested. Fall is a good time to apply fertilizer, especially build-up rates of phosphorus and potassium. And fall application of lime is an excellent practice, because it takes time for lime to neutralize soil acids.

Grain Marketing Course Set

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

There's more to profitable farming than just growing crops, says George Hamrick, Pickaway County Extension Agent, Agriculture. How well those crops are marketed can spell the difference between profit and loss for a whole season's work, he explains.

To take some of the mystery out of grain marketing, the Cooperative Extension Service will hold a course on the subject at the fairgrounds in Circleville. The course, consisting of nine 3-hour sessions, will start December 9 and will continue into March.

Dr. John Sharp, grain marketing professor at The Ohio State University, will conduct the course, which presents college-level material. Subjects to be considered will be identifying and evaluating grain marketing information, principles of marketing as they apply to grain, supply and demand, the futures market, storage and transportation alternatives, the export market and current market situation.

Hamrick says the course is designed for farmers, elevator operators and others interested in marketing grain, and farm wives are encouraged to attend with their husbands.

This is the fourth season Dr. Sharp has conducted courses on grain marketing. More than 750 farmers and grain elevator operators have graduated from course held in the last three seasons. Because of the popularity of the courses, many people who wanted to take the course had to be turned away in previous seasons. Registration for the Circleville course must be in by December 1, and enrollment will be limited to available space.

Dr. Sharp says the course gives farmers tools for solving their marketing problems. He believes farmers can make good marketing decisions, if they understand the marketing system and principles involved in marketing grain crops. Comments by students who have taken the course indicate they have been able to make decisions that have added extra dollars to their farm incomes.

Following completion of the course, participants may decide to join a 2-day bus tour to Chicago to study the Chicago Board of Trade and the Mercantile Exchange.

For details about times and enrollment fees, contact George Hamrick at the Pickaway County Extension Office, telephone number 474-7534.

This has been the busiest year for the OSU Soil Testing Laboratory since 1968, and just under 65,000 samples were analyzed. The number of soil samples handled at the lab peaked out between 1960 and 1968. But there has been a strong trend toward increased numbers of samples over the past four years. A number of factors have contributed to this increase.

Rising fertilizer prices have caused many growers to seek ways to fertilize more efficiently. They realize that lime and fertilizer are essential factors in their crop production programs. Also they don't want to save cents on lime and fertilizers only to lose dollars in lost crop yields.

By soil testing, growers can evaluate the soil acidity and fertility of each field. They can then apply lime and fertilizers, based on the actual needs of the crop to be grown in each field. By soil testing, growers avoid over-fertilizing and under-fertilizing and thereby increase their net return.

Another reason for the increased number of samples sent to the lab is the new standard test, introduced earlier this year. Also more precise lime and fertilizer recommendations have been included in the soil testing program. The new standard soil test, which now includes bases, per cent base saturation and calculated cation exchange capacity, is a great improvement for diagnosing fertility and nutrient balance in soils. And the price was lowered from $3 to $2.

Fall applications of lime and fertilizers helps to spread out work loads both for dealers and crop growers, as well as lessening storage needs. This decreases costs and, ultimately, the price of lime and fertilizer. It also cuts down on the amount of work during the busy spring days.

In recent years, many lime and fertilizer dealers have been sampling farmers' fields for them. This is both good and bad. First, the grower has much to gain by being observant while walking through his fields to pull his soil samples. He also has the most to gain by making sure he gets good representative soil samples for analyzing.

On the other hand, well-trained conscientious industry representatives may have more experience and should pull excellent samples. Nevertheless, the grower needs to assist in soil sampling and furnish the lab with good cropping and soil information.

The best source of information and supplies is the local County Extension Office. However, some growers may prefer to contact their lime and fertilizer dealers, especially if these dealers will sample their soil. But mainly, growers should get their soil tested, especially if it has been a couple of years since the soils were sampled.

Ration Evaluation Begins Fifth Year

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

The Ohio Livestock Ration Evaluation Program begins its fifth year this fall with an impressive record of assisting Ohio dairy, beef, and sheep farmers with their feeding programs.

According to Dr. D. E. Pritchard, the program's coordinator at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, more than 4,000 feed samples were analyzed for some 1,750 Ohio producers (75 per cent dairymen) in 1975. The program has been offered to Buckeye sheep producers since September, 1975, and nearly 100 have participated.

By submitting feed samples and a fact sheet about the animals being fed, a producer can have rations evaluated for up to six different animal types. These include lactating dairy cows, dry dairy cows, dairy heifers, finishing steers, replacement beef heifers, lactating beef cows, dry beef cows, non-pregnant ewes, pregnant or lactating ewes, replacement ewes or rams, and finishing lambs.

Feedstuffs are analyzed for dry matter, total crude protein, calcium, phosphorus, potassium, magnesium, manganese, iron, copper, and zinc. Total digestible nutrients (TDN) and sulfur contents are estimated from standard feed nutrient values. The computer calculates the total amounts of these nutrients fed daily per animal and compares the amounts with standard nutrient requirements for that type of animal.

One problem which the program has uncovered is the underfeeding of energy when hay crops are fed. On the other hand, too much energy with a lack of protein has been found to be a problem with some corn silages. Mineralwise, some dairy rations have shown a calcium deficiency, and at the same time, more than the required amount of phosphorus. All these situations can cause possible health problems if not corrected.

Pritchard advises producers to ask for an optional crude protein test on any hay or haylage which has undergone a high temperature curing process. Cattle will usually eat these heat-damaged feeds well, but the nutritional value will be reduced from expected levels. Damaged hay will probably be moldy with a dark color. Warning signals for haylage are a caramelized or tobacco smell and a brownish color.

The first 4 years of the Ohio Livestock Ration Evaluation Program have been beneficial to many dairymen and some beef and sheep producers. Pritchard says it has helped them to more accurately balance their rations, improve animal performance and health, and in many cases reduce feed costs.

Producers should contact their county Extension agent to obtain the necessary materials for submitting feed samples. Many feed industry representatives, veterinarians, and vocational agriculture instructors also have program information. Cost of the standard analysis remains $12 per feed sample submitted. Optional tests are available at a modest fee.

The Ration Evaluation Program, sponsored jointly by the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service, The Ohio State University, and the OARDC is a part of the Research-Extension Analytical Laboratory (REAL) located on the OARDC campus. In addition to ration evaluation, the REAL Lab combines the services of the Ohio Soil Testing Lab and the Ohio Plant Analysis Laboratory. A new sludge analysis program will be offered in mid-1977.

And So It Grows

Now that the garden and fruit spray programs are finished for the year, check out your "home use" pesticides and store them properly.

Cleanup and dispose of empty or near empty containers. Rinse empty containers with water three times and drain. Then dispose of the container by burying or identifying for your trash disposal service to dispose of in an approved landfill. Empty pesticide bags and cartons can be burned, unless the law prohibits such in your area, but you must keep away from the toxic smoke.

Break, crush or otherwise destroy glass, plastic and metal containers and bury them in an isolated place of approved sanitary landfill. Large metal containers may be reclaimed and-or recycled where such facilities are available. Never re-use any empty container for any other purpose than its original intent.

Store unused pesticides in tightly closed original container in a locked cabinet, room or building away from children, pets and livestock. Make sure labels are intact and the container is not torn or leaking. Storage areas should be dry, well ventilated and maintained at temperatures above freezing. Do not store with food, feed, seed, fertilizer or water supplies and keep different pesticides separated. Container labels often give general and specific information to relative storage and disposal.

Pruning Roses

Normally, severe winters in Ohio kill rose canes down to the soil or mulch line. Then, it is a simple practice to cut them back by removing all dead or damaged wood. If damage appears on one side of the cane only, remove the cane since the damaged area will ultimately affect the growth of new shoots.

Disregarding severe winter damage, there are a few pruning practices that must be performed. One is to remove canes that have been broken or damaged by insects or diseases. Another is to remove one or two canes that may be rubbings, and a third to remove those canes that are spindly or less in diameter than the size of a lead pencil.

After pruning to these general recommendations, cut hybrid teas, floribundas and grandifloras to a height of 18 to 24 inches or to a height that is in balance with the rose bed, if surrounded by a hedge planting.

Climbing roses are generally pruned according to the basic or first three practices given previously. In addition, there may be some very old, heavy canes which are not producing many leaves and blooms. These can be cut out, letting new canes take their places.

As for height, pruning is limited only to keeping the plant in bounds.

News For Homemakers

By BEVERLY BECHTEL

Home Economics

The energy situation should be of real concern to every American. At a recent agents' conference, we received information from national energy policy specialists and economists. We came away with a sobering impression of real concern. About 50 per cent of our oil is still imported. Canada and Venezuela are cutting back on oil sales (Canada plans to be shipping us no oil by 1982), leaving us pretty much at the mercy of such countries as Nigeria and the Arab States. Strangely enough, when surveys are done, at least half our people feel there is no energy crisis. Yet 70 per cent of those responding feel there soon will be.

National leaders are concerned especially about the next 25 years, because solar and nuclear energy are not expected to be able to really contribute as energy sources until the next century. Every homemaker can help reduce our nation's oil dependency by making an all-out effort to use energy carefully. It doesn't matter what kind of energy you use. Whether it is oil, gas or electricity, they are all in limited supply.

If you look at national averages, about 19 per cent of all our energy is used at home. When you break this down, space heating takes 57 per cent, water heating 15 per cent, cooking 6 per cent, clothes drying 2 per cent, refrigeration 6 per cent, air conditioning 4 per cent, and all other 10 per cent. These figures tell you that real energy savings must come from the major areas of heating and water heating.

The following are some latest energy research points to help you cut down on energy use. Some will be new to you!

1. Setting back the thermostat at night does save energy. Setting back 5 degrees for 8 hours can save about 8 per cent on the fuel bill. Setting back 10 degrees for 8 hours can mean a 12 per cent savings. (Study by Honeywell Corp.)

2. Fluorescent light bulbs produce nearly four times as much light as incandescent lights. However, one research study reports that fluorescent bulbs may cause mood changes in some persons who are sensitive to this type of light.

3. Fluorescent bulbs do use less energy than incandescent bulbs.

4. Only 5 per cent of all energy used in homes is used for lighting. It is very difficult to reduce the energy bill by keeping the lights turned down. This discourages people. Most savings could come from reducing heating of air and water.

5. It used to be said that if you were only going to be gone an hour, to leave fluorescent lights burning because it took more energy to turn them back on than to "run" them an hour. But these lights have been improved. Now they are more efficient. Now, it is recommended that if you are going to be out of a room more than 15 minutes, to turn off the fluorescent lights and turn them back on when you return.

6. Cold water wash is not recommended by OSU for hardly anything, especially soiled clothing or those infected. In most "cold" settings, the water is only 33-80 degrees F, depending on weather. The effectiveness of most laundry products is very poor in water under 60 degrees, even "cold water" detergents. Bacteria survival is much greater in a cold water wash. Fungus that causes athlete's foot survives up to temperatures of 140 degrees F. This is true of some viruses and then they are spread throughout the laundry. In most washers, a "medium" wash temperature is about 130 degrees F and "hot" is 140-150 degrees F and up. A cold water rinse is O.K. for all types of laundry. You don't need heated water to rinse well.

7. The most energy-efficient pans are those with straight sides, flat bottoms. Aluminum clad stainless steel pans heat the most quickly and evenly.

Incidentally, studies are showing that you do not need special pans for the latest models of ceramic-topped ranges, so you could use energy-efficient pans with those, too.

4-H

The Mulligan Stew gang has been in our county now for four years. They are presented to all the fifth graders of the county on a series of six films. They teach our youngsters the need for good nutrition and the use of the four basic food groups.

Fifth grade students in the county schools have been viewing the films for the past four weeks. Circleville school fifth graders will be taking part after the first of the year.

The members view the films, work in a Mulligan Stew workbook and then make a special project of their own about nutrition.

Cathy Schoby, Program Assistant, and the 4-H Agent, Steve Bartels, will then go to the schools and ask the members questions about their projects, hand out participation ribbons, certificates of completion and outstanding of the day recognition.

We hope through this 4-H program youth and their families will be made more aware of the types of food they eat and what makes up a good balanced diet.

Holy cow! where has this week gone. Seems like only a few hours ago that I awoke and it was Monday morning and now all of a sudden it is Friday. Man alive, I have heard of lost weekends but never a lost week.

Special Event
A truly special event is being planned for Sunday, November 21. An open house from the hours of 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. will be held in observance of the 90th birthday of Lettie Vance. The affair will be at the Legion Hall here in our town. Mrs. Vance is a former resident of our community and has a host of friends who will want to remember her on this momentous occasion. It will be so good to have some time with this fine lady. Mrs. Vance moved to Wheelersburg a few years ago but is fondly remembered by many. All of these friends and relatives are encouraged to call during the Sunday celebration.

We have more family information that will be of interest to our readers and we promise to "get on the ball" and have an article in the Herald early next week.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Seymour Sets Up One-Way House Rules

DEAR ABBY: Seymour and I have been married for six years and have no children to tie us down. He has just informed me that he was going to Aspen for a four-day skiing trip with "the boys." Then he laid down the law as to what I may and may not do while he is gone.

1. I may NOT get on a plane and go anywhere.

2. I must be home every evening to receive his phone calls, otherwise he'll "worry" about me. (He says I can't call him because he's not sure where the lodge is, and it's difficult to get incoming calls there.)

Abby, why should I sit home every night for four days while he's off skiing somewhere with "the boys"? This has got to end in a showdown because I refuse to hold still for that kind of treatment. How should I handle it?

SEYMOUR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell Seymour you won't make any promises, but if you should decide to go somewhere, you'll be happy to call HIM if he lets you know where he can be reached. And if he calls and you aren't home, he shouldn't think you dropped dead because there is still plenty of life in YOU!

DEAR ABBY: When you hear that someone you know has a terminal illness, how can you let them know you care?

If you don't see him or speak to him regularly, it would seem ghoulish to call and talk about his health or worse yet to call and avoid the subject.

Sympathy cards or flowers would be premature. It would be awkward to offer sympathy and insincere to express false cheer, so I usually do nothing, hoping they will understand. Then I feel guilty and regret my silence when it's too late.

How would you handle this, Abby?

AMATEUR SAMARITAN

DEAR SAMARITAN: I would maintain the same degree of closeness as before. (Suddenly becoming overly attentive would seem as inappropriate as suddenly avoiding all contact.) To let someone know you care, call or write a brief note simply saying, "I heard you were ill and want you to know that you are in my thoughts and in my prayers." Silence shows indifference.

DEAR ABBY: I finally accepted a blind date with a girl I'll call "Patty." (I say "finally" because a relative of hers who's a friend of mine had been trying to arrange a date between Patty and me for a year.)

Patty was okay, but nothing special. I wouldn't have asked her out again, but a week later she called and said she had two tickets to the theater and asked if I would escort her. I said I would because I like theater, but now I'm sorry because a few days after that Patty called and asked me to escort her to another party!

One week later Patty asked me to escort her to a benefit performance for which she had the tickets ($100 a couple,) and I couldn't very well pass that up!

Then she asked me to please save New Year's Eve because she and a friend are having a party.

How can I break this Patty pattern without hurting her feelings? I don't want to be known as Patty's guy.

STUCK WITH PATTY

DEAR STUCK: You'll be stuck as long as you accept her invitations. Better learn to say NO before you wind up saying "Ido."

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible for a teenager to love her parents and hate them at the same time? I think I do, and that is my problem. Please help me.

SIXTEEN AND FEELING GUILTY

DEAR SIXTEEN: Yes. But get the magazine, Discover Yourself. It's on the newsstands now. In it you'll find an excellent article in which these two conflicting emotions are explained in language you will be able to understand. I recommend it highly to all teenagers.

Commission Race Total Reversed

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — The outcome of an election for Clark County commissioner was reversed this week when the official count showed a mistake in the unofficial figures.

Howard O. Hohn, a two-term incumbent, lost to Democrat Joseph Cullen by 600 votes, according to the official count.

The error occurred when a poll worker misread a vote total election night, said Donald Lawson, election board director.

Young Life Group Sets Banquet

Dr. John Winkler of Worthington will be the featured speaker at the annual Young Life fund raising banquet, to be held November 18 at 7 p.m. at the Pickaway Arms. Dr. Winkler has an M.S. degree in orthodontics, and has been practicing in Columbus for the past eleven years. They are the parents of five children.

Dr. and Mrs. Winkler have been involved in Young Life and Mrs. Winkler is presently serving on the Columbus Young Life Committee.

David Chilcote, area director, will be presiding as the master of ceremonies.

The banquet will explain the purposes and goals of the Christian organization that works with high school students. Since its beginning in October of 1974, the local group has grown from 12 to now over 300 local teens. The international organization has worked in over 300 communities in the United States and in 13 foreign countries.

Local work is done on a volunteer basis but funds are needed for camping scholarships, a place to meet, and other operating expenses. It is hoped that eventually a part-time or full-time paid staff person will be employed.

All Young Life groups are supported by their own communities under the direction of a local committee. Circleville's committee consists of Larry Plum, Charles Hickey, Ed and Edith Grigg, Ruth Reichelderfer, Forrest Traylor, and David Case.

The local leaders are Gregg and Debbie Brown, Sam and Nancy Dettra, Joe Koch, Brenda Riffle, Mindy Sargent, Nancy Spring, and Dan and Carol Zink.

Anyone wishing to attend the banquet may do so by calling Greg Brown at 474-7834 or Larry Plum at 474-3135, or any other leader or committee person for reservations. The banquet is open to the public.

Man Guilty Of Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP) — The last of three defendants charged in the kidnap murder of a Dayton furniture dealer was found guilty Friday by a Hamilton County Common Pleas Court jury.

The guilty verdict against 45-year-old Willis Leroy ended three days of deliberations.

Leroy was found guilty of extortion, kidnapping and aggravated murder with specifications that may lead to the death penalty. The other two charged in the death of Lester Eloff received life terms.

Leroy, also of Dayton, will be sentenced after he has returned to Montgomery County to undergo psychiatric examination. The trial was moved to Cincinnati because of pretrial publicity in Dayton.

Eloff, 67, was found shot to death in September of 1975 shortly after his family paid $400,000 ransom.

Convicted earlier were Albert Lee Scott, 40, a former employee of Eloff and Herman Lee Moore, 47.

The Mulligan Stew gang has been in our county now for four years. They are presented to all the fifth graders of the county on a series of six films. They teach our youngsters the need for good nutrition and the use of the four basic food groups.

Fifth grade students in the county schools have been viewing the films for the past four weeks. Circleville school fifth graders will be taking part after the first of the year.

The members view the films, work in a Mulligan Stew workbook and then make a special project of their own about nutrition.

Cathy Schoby, Program Assistant, and the 4-H Agent, Steve Bartels, will then go to the schools and ask the members questions about their projects, hand out participation ribbons, certificates of completion and outstanding of the day recognition.

We hope through this 4-H program youth and their families will be made more aware of the types of food they eat and what makes up a good balanced diet.

Holy cow! where has this week gone. Seems like only a few hours ago that I awoke and it was Monday morning and now all of a sudden it is Friday. Man alive, I have heard of lost weekends but never a lost week.

Special Event

A truly special event is being planned for Sunday, November 21. An open house from the hours of 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. will be held in observance of the 90th birthday of Lettie Vance. The affair will be at the Legion Hall here in our town. Mrs. Vance is a former resident of our community and has a host of friends who will want to remember her on this momentous occasion. It will be so good to have some time with this fine lady. Mrs. Vance moved to Wheelersburg a few years ago but is fondly remembered by many. All of these friends and relatives are encouraged to call during the Sunday celebration.

We have more family information that will be of interest to our readers and we promise to "get on the ball" and have an article in to the Herald early next week.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Seymour Sets Up One-Way House Rules

DEAR ABBY: Seymour and I have been married for six years and have no children to tie us down. He has just informed me that he was going to Aspen for a four-day skiing trip with "the boys." Then he laid down the law as to what I may and may not do while he is gone.

1. I may NOT get on a plane and go anywhere.

2. I must be home every evening to receive his phone calls, otherwise he'll "worry" about me. (He says I can't call him because he's not sure where the lodge is, and it's difficult to get incoming calls there.)

Abby, why should I sit home every night for four days while he's off skiing somewhere with "the boys"? This has got to end in a showdown because I refuse to hold still for that kind of treatment. How should I handle it?

SEYMOUR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell Seymour you won't make any promises, but if you should decide to go somewhere, you'll be happy to call HIM if he lets you know where he can be reached. And if he calls and you aren't home, he shouldn't think you dropped dead because there is still plenty of life in YOU!

DEAR ABBY: When you hear that someone you know has a terminal illness, how can you let them know you care?

If you don't see him or speak to him regularly, it would seem ghoulish to call and talk about his health or worse yet to call and avoid the subject.

Sympathy cards or flowers would be premature. It would be awkward to offer sympathy and insincere to express false cheer, so I usually do nothing, hoping they will understand. Then I feel guilty and regret my silence when it's too late.

How would you handle this, Abby?

AMATEUR SAMARITAN

DEAR SAMARITAN: I would maintain the same degree of closeness as before. (Suddenly becoming overly attentive would seem as inappropriate as suddenly avoiding all contact.) To let someone know you care, call or write a brief note simply saying, "I heard you were ill and want you to know that you are in my thoughts and in my prayers." Silence shows indifference.

DEAR ABBY: I finally accepted a blind date with a girl I'll call "Patty." (I say "finally" because a relative of hers who's a friend of mine had been trying to arrange a date between Patty and me for a year.)

Patty was okay, but nothing special. I wouldn't have asked her out again, but a week later she called and said she had two tickets to the theater and asked if I would escort her. I said I would because I like theater, but now I'm sorry because a few days after that Patty called and asked me to escort her to another party!

One week later Patty asked me to escort her to a benefit performance for which she had the tickets ($100 a couple,) and I couldn't very well pass that up!

Then she asked me to please save New Year's Eve because she and a friend are having a party.

How can I break this Patty pattern without hurting her feelings? I don't want to be known as Patty's guy.

STUCK WITH PATTY

DEAR STUCK: You'll be stuck as long as you accept her invitations. Better learn to say NO before you wind up saying "Ido."

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible for a teenager to love her parents and hate them at the same time? I think I do, and that is my problem. Please help me.

SIXTEEN AND FEELING GUILTY

DEAR SIXTEEN: Yes. But get the magazine, Discover Yourself. It's on the newsstands now. In it you'll find an excellent article in which these two conflicting emotions are explained in language you will be able to understand. I recommend it highly to all teenagers.

Commission Race Total Reversed

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — The outcome of an election for Clark County commissioner was reversed this week when the official count showed a mistake in the unofficial figures.

Howard O. Hohn, a two-term incumbent, lost to Democrat Joseph Cullen by 600 votes, according to the official count.

The error occurred when a poll worker misread a vote total election night, said Donald Lawson, election board director.

Young Life Group Sets Banquet

Dr. John Winkler of Worthington will be the featured speaker at the annual Young Life fund raising banquet, to be held November 18 at 7 p.m. at the Pickaway Arms. Dr. Winkler has an M.S. degree in orthodontics, and has been practicing in Columbus for the past eleven years. They are the parents of five children.

Dr. and Mrs. Winkler have been involved in Young Life and Mrs. Winkler is presently serving on the Columbus Young Life Committee.

David Chilcote, area director, will be presiding as the master of ceremonies.

The banquet will explain the purposes and goals of the Christian organization that works with high school students. Since its beginning in October of 1974, the local group has grown from 12 to now over 300 local teens. The international organization has worked in over 300 communities in the United States and in 13 foreign countries.

Local work is done on a volunteer basis but funds are needed for camping scholarships, a place to meet, and other operating expenses. It is hoped that eventually a part-time or full-time paid staff person will be employed.

All Young Life groups are supported by their own communities under the direction of a local committee. Circleville's committee consists of Larry Plum, Charles Hickey, Ed and Edith Grigg, Ruth Reichelderfer, Forrest Traylor, and David Case.

The local leaders are Gregg and Debbie Brown, Sam and Nancy Dettra, Joe Koch, Brenda Riffle, Mindy Sargent, Nancy Spring, and Dan and Carol Zink.

Anyone wishing to attend the banquet may do so by calling Greg Brown at 474-7834 or Larry Plum at 474-3135, or any other leader or committee person for reservations. The banquet is open to the public.

A Page Of Opinion

Social Changes

American social life is changing, most sociologists and psychologists agree. But where the evolution will end brings no unanimity of opinion. One of the most striking evidences of change is the desire of many young people to lose their sexual identity.

This is indicated not only by unisex clothing and hair styles. Names also are changing. Henry, James, William, Gary and Tom — these names are not much used by mothers anymore. More common today are Corey, Dana, Leslie or Randy, names interchanged by boy or girl.

It is alleged men now spend more than women on deodorants and perfumes. Girls show more interest in science and math courses in school and less interest in the domestic arts.

Where will it end? Some predict the female of the species will become dominant, with the male acting little more than a supporting role. More likely, the cycle will continue to evolve until both are back at the original starting point.

Wrinkle In Vacations

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — The trend in travel, during the past several years, has been toward the "self-improvement" vacation trip.

You can book yourself on a stop-smoking cruise, or a weight-watching one. You can be lectured on American history while riding a luxury train across country, and become a wine connoisseur while busing through the vineyards.

But the newest wrinkle in vacationing is this: you can have your wrinkles removed — or your nose narrowed, your bustline expanded or contracted, your face lifted or even your buttocks trimmed — and see glorious England at the same time.

They call it the "New Life Holiday," and the travel group who put it together claim that in England, with its low, socialized medical-fee structure, an American can have plastic surgery plus round-trip air fare, luxury hotel accommodations and all meals for two weeks — at less than the price of the plastic surgery, alone, in this country. "For instance," says Mrs. Beverly Mullen, spokesperson for the plan, "the surgeon's fee alone for a face lift in the United States is typically $5,000 to $6,000 — whereas you can go to England for two weeks, live like a vacationing queen, and have a face lift, all for only $2,680. And that includes everything, including private hospital room, transportation by private car, color telly, and even the anesthetist's fee ... and you know what THEY charge.

"And the beauty of it is that when you come home, nobody has to know anything — except that you look a lot better. It's one vacation that really does wonders for your appearance."

I met Beverly at a cocktail party a few weeks ago. She was off in a corner, surrounded by men and women, all of them laughing delightedly, and when one of the women squealed, "buttocks — you're kidding!" I had to find out what it was all about. Beverly was explaining that you can have your buttocks reduced, by plastic surgery, for only $2,775, but if you wanted your abdomen flattened down, that would cost about $60 more. Then, because I was a late-comer in the group (which was amazed and amused at the new vacation idea), she explained the concept again.

Skepticism has been known to creep into my heart, so I asked about the credentials of these surgeons who were performing the operations. She said, "the really, really top cosmetic surgery doctors in London" are fitting the operations into their busy schedules. On the advisory board are Sir Henry Osmond-Clarke and Sir Ronald Badley-Scott, both former surgeons to Queen Elizabeth, and they will — with the knowledge of the very conservative British Medical Council — select which physicians are most suited to each individual vacationer-patient.

"This is decidedly not one of those mass media vacation packages," assured Mrs. Mullen. "It will not be advertised, except through word of mouth. It is a very specialized service to men and women who want plastic surgery, and who haven't been able to afford it in the United States. And although it is a vacation concept, it is the surgery that is the important aspect, and no one should take plastic surgery lightly. In England, such surgery has never been taken lightly. Great Britain really is the birthplace of the art, you know."

"The techniques used for rehabilitating disfigured war victims were developed there. In fact, all of the founding members of the American Association of Plastic Surgeons received their training in Britain. Anyone who takes a 'New Life Holiday' will be treated by a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons."

There is more to taking this trip than renewing your passport, however. At the time a booking is made, a medical-history form must be completed by the traveler's personal physician. Full-face and profile photographs are forwarded, along with the medical history, to the British physicians. Once a surgeon has agreed to accept the case, his name and professional details are forwarded to the client, and a booking finally is made on a scheduled commercial airline. The vacationer is met at Heathrow Airport, London, and driven by private car to St. George's Hospital, 300 yards from the sea, overlooking the Isle of Wight. Following surgery, usually the next day, there is a recuperative period in the hospital, the length dependent upon the type of operation (5 nights for a face lift, 7 for nose correction, 4 for eyelids, etc.), and then the patient moves to a choice of three deluxe English country manor houses for the remainder of the two-week visit.

"And if you can pull yourself away from your convalescent accommodations, you can take tours to Stratford-on-Avon, Bath, Oxford or London," says Beverly. "You might find some of them extremely attractive — almost as attractive as YOU."

Mac Davis Splits Pants

LAS VEGAS (AP) — "I'm not a pants splitter normally, singer Mac Davis told his opening night crowd of 1,000 at the MGM Grand Hotel after he split the seat of his pants in the middle of a medley of 1950s rock tunes.

"I'm going to catch hell when the show's over," Davis said, noting his mother and stepfather were in the Thursday night audience. "Hi mom, sorry about the britches," Davis added.

The last major pants-splitting incident here came two years ago when an overweight Elvis Presley had a similar problem.

After the show Davis told reporters: "Just tell 'em I didn't do it on purpose."

Infant Death Being Probed

ELKHART, Ind. (AP) — Officials report another infant death among members of a sect who reject professional medical care on religious grounds.

Coroner Frederick Bigler reported Thursday a newborn male suffocated shortly after being delivered by Mrs. Arthur L. Collins.

Officials said it was the eighth death in recent weeks tied to the Glory Barn Faith Assembly at North Webster.

County policeman William Schermerhorn said Mrs. Collins was attended by a Mrs. Roush, a member of the assembly.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Nov. 13, the 318th day of 1976. There are 48 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1956, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that segregation of the races on public buses was unconstitutional.

On this date — In 1794, President George Washington sent troops into Pennsylvania to suppress an uprising by frontiersmen — the so-called Whiskey Rebellion.

In 1918, the Republic of Austria was proclaimed. In 1941, in World War II, the British aircraft carrier, "Ark Royal," was torpedoed and sunk in the Mediterranean. Only 18 of the crew survived.

In 1942, the two-day naval Battle of Guadalcanal was being fought. The Japanese lost two battleships, one cruiser, three destroyers, two submarines and 11 cargo vessels or transports.

In 1970, West Germany and Poland agreed on a treaty fixing the Oder-Neisse line as a border.

Ten years ago: Israeli forces swept two miles into Jordan and attacked three towns as jets fought overhead. Five years ago: A crewman on an Air Canada jetliner used a fire ax to knock out a hijacker and end nearly seven hours of flying back and forth over the U.S. and Canada.

One year ago: The World Health Organization announced that Asia was free of smallpox for the first time in history.

Today's birthdays: Actress Jean Seberg is 38. Actor Alexander Scourby is 63.

Thought for today: It revolts me, but, I do it! — W.S. Gilbert, English playwright, 1836-1911.

Bicentennial footnote: Two-hundred years ago today, General George Washington, reached Fort Lee, N.J. after crossing the Hudson river from New York to escape British forces and was informed that he could not expect much help from the New Jersey militia.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

From Great Britain and Sweden comes interesting, even exciting, news that stomach ulcers can be cured with a new antihistamine drug.

The drug, cimetidine, is being tried under careful controls before being released in America. The rate of healing of these ulcers in patients under treatment was between three and four weeks.

If this compound is found to be safe, it is believed that the medical management of peptic ulcers of the stomach and the duodenum may be revolutionized.

The electronic pacemaker, so successful for controlling the abnormal rhythms of the heart, is now being used in a modified form for the urinary bladder.

Many patients, without control of their urinary output, are now being implanted with a pacemaker. Dr. Daniel C. Merrill, at the University of Minnesota, and Christopher J. Conway, an engineer, developed this device and are using it with great success. The patient now can control voiding by simply pushing a button. This is a great contribution, too, to the many paraplegics who are burdened by this problem.

A hereditary condition in which fats and cholesterol accumulate in the blood is responsible in many cases for severe coronary artery disease of the heart.

Now a new technique is in active use in Great Britain for the removal of cholesterol and fats from the blood of these patients.

Dr. Gilbert Thompson, of the Hammersmith Hospital in London, uses a blood cell separator and can reduce cholesterol levels by as much as 50 per cent.

This technique will be invaluable to those patients whose blood levels of cholesterol cannot be controlled by any other means.

Quebec Separatist Movement Gains

MONTREAL, Quebec (AP) — The Quebec separatist movement, once viewed as a minority of disaffected intellectuals and bomb-hurling radicals, is expected to make dramatic gains in provincial elections Monday.

Party leader Rene Levesque has pledged that if he wins, he will put the question of the independence of French-speaking Quebec to a referendum.

The upsurge of support for his party, however, is not a sudden swelling of independence fever. Opinion polls indicate that only about 20 per cent of the voters are diehard separatists, and Levesque's espousal of the cause may be his major weakness.

His strength in the polls is seen as the result of widespread frustration with a rash of crippling strikes, high unemployment and inflation, the province's billion-dollar debt from the Olympics last summer, alleged government corruption and bitter French-English rivalries.

"Things can't go on like this any more!" is Levesque's pitch to the voters as he calls for the ouster of Premier Robert Bourassa's six-year-old Liberal government.

On the defensive, Bourassa paints Levesque as a dangerous secessionist who would break up the Canadian federation, lose Quebec $1.5 billion in revenue from the federal government and destroy the province's economy.

"No to the Separatists!" say the signs on Montreal buses over a picture of Bourassa, a bespectacled, 43-year-old economist. "Only we can do it."

Many observers regard Levesque's promise of an independence referendum as a device to satisfy the apparent majority of French Canadians who favor continued union with Canada's nine other predominantly English-speaking provinces. Since the polls indicate the referendum would go against separatism, political success on Monday might force the separatists to shelve or even abandon their fundamental cause.

Most political observers believe that Bourassa's Liberals, who now hold 97 of the 110 seats in the provincial assembly, will manage to retain a majority and stay in office. But they may not.

In the last elections, in 1973, the Quebec party won only six assembly seats but they got 31 per cent of the vote.

The Liberals won 54 per cent of the vote, but their popularity has been slipping badly. Most commentators say Bourassa called the elections because his support was eroding so rapidly he felt waiting until his five-year term was up would mean certain defeat.

For Quebec's non-French minority — the old-line English living in Montreal's elegant Westmount district and the new wave of immigrants from the European continent and the Middle East — the choice is a hard one. Their fear of separatism is matched by antagonism toward Bourassa, and they are threatening to spread their votes among a parcel of splinter parties.

Livestock Men Give Last Hurrah

CHICAGO (AP) — More than 600 livestock men are gathering for a last hurrah at the soon-to-be demolished Stock Yard Inn, one of the last relics of a square-mile complex that once made Chicago the "hog butcher of the world."

Slabs of prime rib will be the main course at Saturday night's tribute to the Tudor-style hotel, where rich meat packers and prominent politicians once stayed in elegant suites, and drovers and cowboys bunked in a third-floor dorm. The hotel will be demolished the day after Christmas.

Its passing leaves only the International Amphitheatre and a stone gate — now a national landmark — remaining from the teeming Chicago Stock Yards scene that started business in 1865.

The yards were closed in 1971, a victim of the economy, but the Inn hung on. Its restaurant, world famous for attentive waiters and refrigerated showcases from which diners could choose their meat, closed earlier this year.

Saturday's dinner will be served in the mahogany-paneled Saddle and Sirlon Club, where scores of portraits hang of the men whose names are synonymous with the yards — Swift, Armour, Morris, Wood Prince and Potter.

Among the diners will be 73-year-old Joe Gregory of Chicago, who helped organize the $12-a-plate "last meal" and hopes to have a yearly reunion of the old stock yard gang somewhere.

"I began working in the hog pens in 1916, and when I retired in 1968 I was president of the Iowa Livestock Commission Co.," said Gregory.

"In the old days we used to take the buyers right into the pens and talk prices among the hogs," he said. "You'd have to just guess the weight of those hogs, and if you missed, by 15 pounds you could lose your profit."

Gregory said the biggest daily cattle run at the yards was 49,128 on Nov. 16, 1908; the biggest sheep run was 71,792 on Oct. 16, 1911, and the biggest hog run was 122,749 on Dec. 15, 1924.

Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — The amazing strength of existing single-family home sales continues to defy the economic slowdown and even long-established seasonal marketing trends that usually show a slowdown as winter approaches.

"New monthly sales record were established in every region of the country," said the National Association of Realtors. Resale activity in September, it reported, was 25.7 per cent ahead of the year-earlier rate.

In all, 266,000 homes were sold during September, which the Realtors said worked out to a seasonally adjusted annual pace of 3.33 million sales. Because of a lower rate earlier this year, actual sales for 1976 are expected to be more than 2.7 million, a record.

The vigorous pace of activity in the resale market has gone relatively unnoticed by some of the public and even by professional economists because of the highly visible depression in the new-home market.

But, while the economy was in the midst of the recession, millions of Americans exercised their own individual judgments that used homes were good buys.

The existing home market is unique in some respects. It is all but unorganized. Rather than reflecting the concerted activity of volume sellers and buyers, or the effectiveness of sales promotion, it represents many private decisions.

Real estate people repeatedly hear customers refer to existing homes as being better built and more commodious, and often that the neighborhoods in which such houses exist are mature and stable, and better supplied with services and conveniences.

The breakdown by the Realtors does not include sales figures on urban versus suburban home sales, but some of the activity is likely to represent a renewed interest in core-city living.

The survey shows that the market was particularly brisk in the West, where on a seasonally adjusted basis sales rose an unprecedented 15.3 per cent over the August pace.

The next strongest performance was the 10.2 per cent gain posted in the Northeast, but sales also were above expectations in the Southern and North-Central regions, with monthly gains of 8 per cent and 3.5 per cent, respectively.

Again contrary to patterns existing in the economy as a whole, the median sale price of an existing single-family home fell in September to $38,700 or $700 below the August level.

More significantly, the Realtors report, prices in September were just 8.1 per cent above the level of a year ago, and well below the 10.8 per cent rise in 1974 and the 10.4 per cent climb in 1975.

The West was an exception to the price trend, with sales tags rising sharply. Reports from that region show prices have risen 16.9 per cent over the past 12 months.

They'll Do It Every Time

A Page Of Opinion

Social Changes

American social life is changing, most sociologists and psychologists agree. But where the evolution will end brings no unanimity of opinion. One of the most striking evidences of change is the desire of many young people to lose their sexual identity.

This is indicated not only by unisex clothing and hair styles. Names also are changing. Henry, James, William, Gary and Tom — these names are not much used by mothers anymore. More common today are Corey, Dana, Leslie or Randy, names interchanged by boy or girl.

It is alleged men now spend more than women on deodorants and perfumes. Girls show more interest in science and math courses in school and less interest in the domestic arts.

Where will it end? Some predict the female of the species will become dominant, with the male acting little more than a supporting role. More likely, the cycle will continue to evolve until both are back at the original starting point.

Wrinkle In Vacations

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — The trend in travel, during the past several years, has been toward the "self-improvement" vacation trip.

You can book yourself on a stop-smoking cruise, or a weight-watching one. You can be lectured on American history while riding a luxury train across country, and become a wine connoisseur while busing through the vineyards.

But the newest wrinkle in vacationing is this: you can have your wrinkles removed — or your nose narrowed, your bustline expanded or contracted, your face lifted or even your buttocks trimmed — and see glorious England at the same time.

They call it the "New Life Holiday," and the travel group who put it together claim that in England, with its low, socialized medical-fee structure, an American can have plastic surgery plus round-trip air fare, luxury hotel accommodations and all meals for two weeks — at less than the price of the plastic surgery, alone, in this country. "For instance," says Mrs. Beverly Mullen, spokesperson for the plan, "the surgeon's fee alone for a face lift in the United States is typically $5,000 to $6,000 — whereas you can go to England for two weeks, live like a vacationing queen, and have a face lift, all for only $2,680. And that includes everything, including private hospital room, transportation by private car, color telly, and even the anesthetist's fee... and you know what THEY charge.

"And the beauty of it is that when you come home, nobody has to know anything — except that you look a lot better. It's one vacation that really does wonders for your appearance."

I met Beverly at a cocktail party a few weeks ago. She was off in a corner, surrounded by men and women, all of them laughing delightedly, and when one of the women squealed, "buttocks — you're kidding!", I had to find out what it was all about. Beverly was explaining that you can have your buttocks reduced, by plastic surgery, for only $2,775, but if you wanted your abdomen flattened down, that would cost about $60 more. Then, because I was a late-comer in the group (which was amazed and amused at the new vacation idea), she explained the concept again.

Skepticism has been known to creep into my heart, so I asked about the credentials of these surgeons who were performing the operations. She said, "the really, really top cosmetic surgery doctors in London" are fitting the operations into their busy schedules. On the advisory board are Sir Henry Osmond-Clarke and Sir Ronald Badley-Scott, both former surgeons to Queen Elizabeth, and they will — with the knowledge of the very conservative British Medical Council — select which physicians are most suited to each individual vacationer-patient.

"This is decidedly not one of those mass media vacation packages," assured Mrs. Mullen. "It will not be advertised, except through word of mouth. It is a very specialized service to men and women who want plastic surgery, and who haven't been able to afford it in the United States. And although it is a vacation concept, it is the surgery that is the important aspect, and no one should take plastic surgery lightly. In England, such surgery has never been taken lightly. Great Britain really is the birthplace of the art, you know."

The techniques used for rehabilitating disfigured war victims were developed there. In fact, all of the founding members of the American Association of Plastic Surgeons received their training in Britain. Anyone who takes a 'New Life Holiday' will be treated by a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons.

There is more to taking this trip than renewing your passport, however. At the time a booking is made, a medical-history form must be completed by the traveler's personal physician. Full-face and profile photographs are forwarded, along with the medical history, to the British physicians. Once a surgeon has agreed to accept the case, his name and professional details are forwarded to the client, and a booking finally is made on a scheduled commercial airline. The vacationer is met at Heathrow Airport, London, and driven by private car to St. George's Hospital, 300 yards from the sea, overlooking the Isle of Wight.

Following surgery, usually the next day, there is a recuperative period in the hospital, the length dependent upon the type of operation (5 nights for a face lift, 7 for nose correction, 4 for eyelids, etc.), and then the patient moves to a choice of three deluxe English country manor houses for the remainder of the two-week visit.

"And if you can pull yourself away from your convalescent accommodations, you can take tours to Stratford-on-Avon, Bath, Oxford or London," says Beverly. "You might find some of them extremely attractive — almost as attractive as YOU."

Mac Davis Splits Pants

LAS VEGAS (AP) — "I'm not a pants splitter normally, singer Mac Davis told his opening night crowd of 1,000 at the MGM Grand Hotel after he split the seat of his pants in the middle of a medley of 1950s rock tunes.

"I'm going to catch hell when the show's over," Davis said, noting his mother and stepfather were in the Thursday night audience. "Hi mom, sorry about the britches," Davis added.

The last major pants-splitting incident here came two years ago when an overweight Elvis Presley had a similar problem.

After the show Davis told reporters: "Just tell 'em I didn't do it on purpose."

Infant Death Being Probed

ELKHART, Ind. (AP) — Officials report another infant death among members of a sect who reject professional medical care on religious grounds.

Coroner Frederick Bigler reported Thursday a newborn male suffocated shortly after being delivered by Mrs. Arthur L. Collins.

Officials said it was the eighth death in recent weeks tied to the Glory Barn Faith Assembly at North Webster.

County policeman William Schermerhorn said Mrs. Collins was attended by a Mrs. Roush, a member of the assembly.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Nov. 13, the 318th day of 1976. There are 48 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1956, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that segregation of the races on public buses was unconstitutional.

On this date — In 1794, President George Washington sent troops into Pennsylvania to suppress an uprising by frontiersmen — the so-called Whiskey Rebellion.

In 1918, the Republic of Austria was proclaimed.

In 1941, in World War II, the British aircraft carrier, "Ark Royal," was torpedoed and sunk in the Mediterranean. Only 18 of the crew survived.

In 1942, the two-day naval Battle of Guadalcanal was being fought. The Japanese lost two battleships, one cruiser, three destroyers, two submarines and 11 cargo vessels or transports.

In 1970, West Germany and Poland agreed on a treaty fixing the Oder-Neisse line as a border.

Ten years ago: Israeli forces swept two miles into Jordan and attacked three towns as jets fought overhead.

Five years ago: A crewman on an Air Canada jetliner used a fire ax to knock out a hijacker and end nearly seven hours of flying back and forth over the U.S. and Canada.

One year ago: The World Health Organization announced that Asia was free of smallpox for the first time in history.

Today's birthdays: Actress Jean Seberg is 38. Actor Alexander Scourby is 63.

Thought for today: It revolts me, but, I do it! — W.S. Gilbert, English playwright, 1836-1911.

Biennial footnote: Two-hundred years ago today, General George Washington, reached Fort Lee, N.J., after crossing the Hudson river from New York to escape British forces and was informed that he could not expect much help from the New Jersey militia.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

From Great Britain and Sweden comes interesting, even exciting, news that stomach ulcers can be cured with a new antihistamine drug.

The drug, cimetidine, is being tried under careful controls before being released in America. The rate of healing of these ulcers in patients under treatment was between three and four weeks.

If this compound is found to be safe, it is believed that the medical management of peptic ulcers of the stomach and the duodenum may be revolutionized.

The electronic pacemaker, so successful for controlling the abnormal rhythms of the heart, is now being used in a modified form for the urinary bladder.

Many patients, without control of their urinary output, are now being implanted with a pacemaker. Dr. Daniel C. Merrill, at the University of Minnesota, and Christopher J. Conway, an engineer, developed this device and are using it with great success.

The patient now can control voiding by simply pushing a button. This is a great contribution, too, to the many paraplegics who are burdened by this problem.

A hereditary condition in which fats and cholesterol accumulate in the blood is responsible in many cases for severe coronary artery disease of the heart.

Now a new technique is in active use in Great Britain for the removal of cholesterol and fats from the blood of these patients.

Dr. Gilbert Thompson, of the Hammersmith Hospital in London, uses a blood cell separator and can reduce cholesterol levels by as much as 50 per cent.

This technique will be invaluable to those patients whose blood levels of cholesterol cannot be controlled by any other means.

Quebec Separatist Movement Gains

MONTREAL, Quebec (AP) — The Quebec separatist movement, once viewed as a minority of disaffected intellectuals and bomb-hurling radicals, is expected to make dramatic gains in provincial elections Monday.

Party leader Rene Levesque has pledged that if he wins, he will put the question of the independence of French-speaking Quebec to a referendum.

The upsurge of support for his party, however, is not a sudden swelling of independence fever. Opinion polls indicate that only about 20 per cent of the voters are diehard separatists, and Levesque's espousal of the cause may be his major weakness.

His strength in the polls is seen as the result of widespread frustration with a rash of crippling strikes, high unemployment and inflation, the province's billion-dollar debt from the Olympics last summer, alleged government corruption and bitter French-English rivalries.

"Things can't go on like this any more!" is Levesque's pitch to the voters as he calls for the ouster of Premier Robert Bourassa's six-year-old Liberal government.

On the defensive, Bourassa paints Levesque as a dangerous secessionist who would break up the Canadian federation, lose Quebec $1.5 billion in revenue from the federal government and destroy the province's economy.

"No to the Separatists!" say the signs on Montreal buses over a picture of Bourassa, a bespectacled, 43-year-old economist. "Only we can do it."

Many observers regard Levesque's promise of an independence referendum as a device to satisfy the apparent majority of French Canadians who favor continued union with Canada's nine other predominantly English-speaking provinces. Since the polls indicate the referendum would go against separatism, political success on Monday might force the separatists to shelve or even abandon their fundamental cause.

Most political observers believe that Bourassa's Liberals, who now hold 97 of the 110 seats in the provincial assembly, will manage to retain a majority and stay in office. But they may not.

In the last elections, in 1973, the Quebec party won only six assembly seats but they got 31 per cent of the vote.

The Liberals won 54 per cent of the vote, but their popularity has been slipping badly. Most commentators say Bourassa called the elections because his support was eroding so rapidly he felt waiting until his five-year term was up would mean certain defeat.

For Quebec's non-French minority — the old-line English living in Montreal's elegant Westmount district and the new wave of immigrants from the European continent and the Middle East — the choice is a hard one. Their fear of separatism is matched by antagonism toward Bourassa, and they are threatening to spread their votes among a parcel of splinter parties.

Livestock Men Give Last Hurrah

They'll Do It Every Time

Being Wine Taster Not All It's Thought To Be

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — It sounded like a wine lover's dream: be a wine judge and taste dozens of some of California's best wines.

But before it was over my tongue was pickled and puckered and my mouth felt like it had been marinated in a cask forgotten in some dark corner by the little old winemaker.

It seemed so inviting: an invitation to join six wine experts on a wine panel for the annual Sonoma County Harvest Fair judging. No one mentioned it would be work, three days of dawn-to-dusk, hard-core slurping.

Being a devotee of the grape, I couldn't turn down this opportunity.

But my mouth almost needed medical help some 350 glasses of wine later, and none of my friends was sympathetic. They thought I had enjoyed myself. But they failed to differentiate between wine drinking and wine tasting.

We wine experts — they did invite me to be a judge — must painfully and regretfully spit out each slurp after rolling it over and around our palates. Trying to take even a tiny sip of that many wines — more than 100 a day — would leave one's skull heavily overcast. It would be hard to tell the simple difference between red and white wines, much less any subtle nuance. It would even be hard to remember to go home at night.

This isn't to say that a trickle or two of some particularly delightful sample didn't infrequently slip down someone's throat. But it is, alas, infrequent.

That's the frustrating part. You come across something that tastes so good your ears wiggle, but all you've got is a dribble in your glass ... and you can't run out and buy some because you don't know which winery it's from — the wines are identified only by their type and numbers. No names, please.

It's all very strict. Hidden away in another room under secret code numbers, the wines are poured into numbered glasses, then brought to the judges' tables. There, the grapevine gurus carefully examine each wine making careful written notes on each facet of a wine's characteristics: color, smell, flavor. We dip into our knowledge of what a certain grape variety's wine tastes like — each has its own distinctions — and then try to decide how good, or bad, each sample is.

After sniffing and sipping we voted on each wine; either it won an award or it didn't.

Often a beautiful bouquet would entrance a judge, who eagerly tasted it. But on rare occasions one could hear a muffled, "Aargh, do I have to insult my mouth and actually taste this?" when someone felt it would be olfactory suicide to sip a bad try at winemaking.

And there were times when it was painful willpower to keep from gleefully imbibing some enological excellence.

So there we were. Seven of us — Ruth Ellen Church of the Chicago

Tribune, David Pursglove of the Washington Star, international wine writer Alexis Bespaloff, wine editor Henry Rubin of Bon Appetit Magazine — no relation — and Profs. James Guymon and Cornelius Ough of the University of California at Davis' School of Enology.

All of us were garbed in white laboratory coats to guard against some over-enthusiastic swirl bounding out of the glass to stain our clothing permanently. We sat at tables layered with white tablecloths. Bright klieg lights blazed over our shoulders to provide a perfect background under which to judge the wines' colors.

With few words we set to our task. The first series of shimmering yellow-gold white wines came out, beginning what became a series of unending waves of wine glasses. We eagerly worked our way through the opening rounds of white wines, joyous fruity fragrances and perfumes filling our noses.

Things got more difficult when we returned after a brief break and found awaiting our opinion 18 numbered glasses of Pinot Chardonnays, the finest white wine grape of California and France. There were the tiniest subtleties of grape flavor and intensity to look for as well as variations of wood aging or lack of it.

Our knees got wobbly by late afternoon of the second day when, already weary, we came face-to-face with 25 potent Zinfandels, the heady berryish red wine. There were so many of them it took two rows to surround each judge, and it took a careful touch to keep from sending rows of glasses sprawling.

Barely had we sipped our way through, aided by increasingly frequent gulps of water to clear our palates, when the "coup de mouth" appeared: 22 Cabernet Sauvignons — the full, assertive variety of French Bordeaux grape, the one which makes California's best red wine.

When it was over we were all puffed out. In fact at a beautiful Sonoma County Winegrowers Association dinner that evening, despite a groaning table laden with the area's finest fine wines, three judges sheepishly wolfed down an ice cold beer.

But like the truehearts we were, we all returned to the pleasures of the grape for dinnertime. And, properly refreshed, we poured ourselves into our final day of judging the next morning.

At the end of three days they told us we each had tasted 347 separate glasses of wine; averaged 1,388 tastes each; as a group gone through 2,429 glasses of wine and proclaimed our opinions based on a total of 9,716 tastes. No count was made of stained teeth.

We awarded seven gold medals to some outstanding wines.

That should have been enough, but let me tell you about the dynamite wine I had with dinner that night ...

City Gets Additional Federal Funds

Congressman William H. Harsha announced Friday that the Environmental Protection Agency has awarded a $2,029,800 grant to the City of Circleville for construction of a Waste Water Treatment Works.

The grant represents an increase in a previously awarded $5,520,675 grant due to a change in the scope of the project. Federal funding will provide 75 per cent of the total project cost.

The sewage treatment plant is scheduled for completion in early 1977.

Woman Indicted In Slayings

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — The two court-appointed attorneys for Margo C. Davies say they will meet with the Worthington woman over the weekend to begin planning her defense to charges she murdered her three young daughters.

"Until we've talked to her there's not much we can say at all," John Wolf, one of the attorneys, said Friday after a grand jury indicted the 20-year-old Mrs. Davies on three counts of aggravated murder.

The indictments included specifications, which means that Mrs. Davies, if convicted, would be sentenced to die in the electric chair unless the court found extenuating circumstances.

Meanwhile, Prosecutor W. Duncan Whitney said Mrs. Davies, who was transferred Friday from Columbus to the Marion County Jail north of here, will be arraigned soon on the charges.

Mrs. Davies is accused of murdering her daughters Laurie, 18 months, Christine, 2, and Tonya, 3, by tying plastic trash bags over their heads. The children's bound bodies were found at separate locations in Delaware County.

Police have said they do not know where the killings occurred. However, Delaware County has assumed jurisdiction because the children were last seen alive in that county and the bodies were found there.

The grand jury cleared its docket of other cases Friday, devoting the full day to hearing testimony in the case.

Cincy Layoff Plan Blasted

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's plan to lay off several hundred employees in the face of an $11 million to $16 million deficit is being threatened by law suits from two opposing groups within the Cincinnati Fire Department.

Safety Director Richard Castellini said the city personnel department meanwhile has held up plans for the lay off action scheduled for Nov. 28 at the order of City Manager William Donaldson.

Donaldson said the cuts were necessary after voters defeated a .35 per cent increase in the earnings tax Nov. 2.

A newly formed group of black firemen, called "Watchmen," threatened to sue through their attorney David Nichols because of the proposed cutback of 150 firemen.

Legal Aid Society lawyer Robert Newman said his group would also intervene because 53 of those to be cut are blacks who were hired under a federal court consent decree to bring minorities into the division.

Cincinnati Fire Fighters Association President Forest Buckley said his union would sue if the city fails to follow state law in layoffs which require those hired last to go first.

Being Wine Taster Not All It's Thought To Be

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — It sounded like a wine lover's dream: be a wine judge and taste dozens of some of California's best wines.

But before it was over my tongue was pickled and puckered and my mouth felt like it had been marinated in a cask forgotten in some dark corner by the little old winemaker.

It seemed so inviting: an invitation to join six wine experts on a wine panel for the annual Sonoma County Harvest Fair judging. No one mentioned it would be work, three days of dawn-to-dusk, hard-core slurping.

Being a devotee of the grape, I couldn't turn down this opportunity.

But my mouth almost needed medical help some 350 glasses of wine later, and none of my friends was sympathetic. They thought I had enjoyed myself. But they failed to differentiate between wine drinking and wine tasting.

We wine experts — they did invite me to be a judge — must painfully and regrettably spit out each slurp after rolling it over and around our palates. Trying to take even a tiny sip of that many wines — more than 100 a day — would leave one's skull heavily overcast. It would be hard to tell the simple difference between red and white wines, much less any subtle nuance. It would even be hard to remember to go home at night.

This isn't to say that a trickle or two of some particularly delightful sample didn't infrequently slip down someone's throat. But it is, alas, infrequent.

That's the frustrating part. You come across something that tastes so good your ears wiggle, but all you've got is a dribble in your glass ... and you can't run out and buy some because you don't know which winery it's from — the wines are identified only by their type and numbers. No names, please.

It's all very strict. Hidden away in another room under secret code numbers, the wines are poured into numbered glasses, then brought to the judges' tables. There, the grapevine gurus carefully examine each wine making careful written notes on each facet of a wine's characteristics: color, smell, flavor. We dip into our knowledge of what a certain grape variety's wine tastes like — each has its own distinctions — and then try to decide how good, or bad, each sample is.

After sniffing and sipping we voted on each wine; either it won an award or it didn't.

Often a beautiful bouquet would entrance a judge, who eagerly tasted it. But on rare occasions one could hear a muffled, "Aargh, do I have to insult my mouth and actually taste this?" when someone felt it would be olfactory suicide to sip a bad try at winemaking.

And there were times when it was painful willpower to keep from gleefully imbibing some enological excellence.

So there we were. Seven of us — Ruth Ellen Church of the Chicago

Tribune, David Pursglove of the Washington Star, international wine writer Alexis Bespaloff, wine editor Henry Rubin of Bon Appetit Magazine — no relation — and Profs. James Guymon and Cornelius Ough of the University of California at Davis' School of Enology.

All of us were garbed in white laboratory coats to guard against some over-enthusiastic swirl bounding out of the glass to stain our clothing permanently. We sat at tables layered with white tablecloths. Bright klieg lights blazed over our shoulders to provide a perfect background under which to judge the wines' colors.

With few words we set to our task. The first series of shimmering yellow-gold white wines came out, beginning what became a series of unending waves of wine glasses. We eagerly worked our way through the opening rounds of white wines, joyous fruity fragrances and perfumes filling our noses.

Things got more difficult when we returned after a brief break and found awaiting our opinion 18 numbered glasses of Pinot Chardonnays, the finest white wine grape of California and France. There were the tiniest subtleties of grape flavor and intensity to look for as well as variations of wood aging or lack of it.

Our knees got wobbly by late afternoon of the second day when, already weary, we came face-to-face with 25 potent Zinfandels, the heady berryish red wine. There were so many of them it took two rows to surround each judge, and it took a careful touch to keep from sending rows of glasses sprawling.

Barely had we sipped our way through, aided by increasingly frequent glugs of water to clear our palates, when the "coup de mouth" appeared: 22 Cabernet Sauvignons — the full, assertive variety of French Bordeaux grape, the one which makes California's best red wine.

When it was over we were all puckered out. In fact at a beautiful Sonoma County Winegrowers Association dinner that evening, despite a groaning table laden with the area's finest fine wines, three judges sheepishly wolfed down an ice cold beer.

But like the truehearts we were, we all returned to the pleasures of the grape for dinnertime. And, properly refreshed, we poured ourselves into our final day of judging the next morning.

At the end of three days they told us we each had tasted 347 separate glasses of wine; averaged 1,388 tastes each; as a group gone through 2,429 glasses of wine and proclaimed our opinions based on a total of 9,716 tastes. No count was made of stained teeth.

We awarded seven gold medals to some outstanding wines.

That should have been enough, but let me tell you about the dynamite wine I had with dinner that night ...

City Gets Additional Federal Funds

Congressman William H. Harsha announced Friday that the Environmental Protection Agency has awarded a $2,029,800 grant to the City of Circleville for construction of a Waste Water Treatment Works.

The grant represents an increase in a previously awarded $5,520,675 grant due to a change in the scope of the project. Federal funding will provide 75 per cent of the total project cost.

The sewage treatment plant is scheduled for completion in early 1977.

Woman Indicted In Slayings

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — The two court-appointed attorneys for Margo C. Davies say they will meet with the Worthington woman over the weekend to begin planning her defense to charges she murdered her three young daughters.

"Until we've talked to her there's not much we can say at all," John Wolf, one of the attorneys, said Friday after a grand jury indicted the 20-year-old Mrs. Davies on three counts of aggravated murder.

The indictments included specifications, which means that Mrs. Davies, if convicted, would be sentenced to die in the electric chair unless the court found extenuating circumstances.

Meanwhile, Prosecutor W. Duncan Whitney said Mrs. Davies, who was transferred Friday from Columbus to the Marion County Jail north of here, will be arraigned soon on the charges.

Mrs. Davies is accused of murdering her daughters Laurie, 18 months, Christine, 2, and Tonya, 3, by tying plastic trash bags over their heads. The children's bound bodies were found at separate locations in Delaware County.

Police have said they do not know where the killings occurred. However, Delaware County has assumed jurisdiction because the children were last seen alive in that county and the bodies were found there.

The grand jury cleared its docket of other cases Friday, devoting the full day to hearing testimony in the case.

Cincy Layoff Plan Blasted

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's plan to lay off several hundred employees in the face of an $11 million to $16 million deficit is being threatened by law suits from two opposing groups within the Cincinnati Fire Department.

Safety Director Richard Castellini said the city personnel department meanwhile has held up plans for the lay off action scheduled for Nov. 28 at the order of City Manager William Donaldson.

Donaldson said the cuts were necessary after voters defeated a .35 per cent increase in the earnings tax Nov. 2.

A newly formed group of black firemen, called "Watchmen," threatened to sue through their attorney David Nichols because of the proposed cutback of 150 firemen.

Legal Aid Society lawyer Robert Newman said his group would also intervene because 53 of those to be cut are blacks who were hired under a federal court consent decree to bring minorities into the division.

Cincinnati Fire Fighters Association President Forest Buckley said his union would sue if the city fails to follow state law in layoffs which require those hired last to go first.

Junior Women's Club Sponsors Family Week

SLOGANS — Willie Ehrlich, on the left, and Diana Jones are shown with two of the posters with slogans for Family Week to begin with a Brunch, Nov. 20 at the Grange and 4-H building at the fairgrounds.

Mrs. John Radcliff, president of Circleville Junior Women's Club read the proclamation establishing the week of Nov. 21, as Family Week for the town of Circleville at a recent club meeting.

The proclamation reads: Whereas, the modern family is subject to changing roles and stresses that tear at family bonds.

Whereas, Circleville Junior Women feel that a time should be set aside to emphasize the value of strong family ties and the satisfactions of personal and community friendships.

Whereas, National Family Week sets aside the week of Thanksgiving as seven days of family consideration and appreciations as follows: Sunday, religion day, attendance of religious services. Monday, home day, focus on the privilege, duty and responsibility parent and child have one to the other.

Brunch Bunch Meets To Elect New Officers

The Brunch Bunch Homemakers Extension Club met Wednesday at the home of Janice Jones, Route 4, for a business meeting and election of officers. Ann Morehart was welcomed as a new member.

Leading the club for the coming year will be: Cindy Karshner, president; Sue Ward, secretary-treasurer; Janice Jones, news reporter and Sue Ward, representative to Home Council.

Dee Dawson showed the film "I Love You Frank" and led a discussion of the story.

Volunteering to make cookies for the annual Christmas meeting were Susie Karshner, Terry Conley, Elizabeth Scott and Emily Berry.

The next meeting will be held 9:30 a.m., Dec. 8, at the home of Susie Karshner, Route 1.

Historical Society Program Planned

Pickaway County Historical Society will meet 8 p.m. Thursday at the Clarke-May Museum. Two villages active in the restoration of old buildings, Groveport and Ashville, will be the topic for the evening.

Mrs. Lana Giehl of Groveport will talk and give a slide presentation of the projects in that community. She is a representative of the America the Beautiful Fund which has helped both communities. She is a high school teacher, a charter member of the Groveport Heritage Society, and the ESA, a woman's service organization.

Robert Hines of Ashville will show slides of his community and tell of natives of that village who have made contributions in the fields of botany, agriculture, inventions, home economics and astronomy. Mr. Hines is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati in the field of community planning, and has edited a book on the past and present projects of Ashville.

A display of antique water glasses owned by Mrs. Harry Kern will be on display in the Pontius Room at the museum.

AAUW Education Study Group Meeting

The Education Study Group of American Assn. of University Women will continue its study of educational programs for gifted and talented children at the home of Barbara Sudduth, 609 Plaza Drive, 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Drying Flowers Program For Garden Club

Pickaway County Garden Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Karl Seyfarth, Woodlane. Mrs. Howard Davies presided at the business meeting.

Mrs. George Haney reminded members that dues are payable by December 1. Mrs. Calvin Danford asked for reservations for the progressive Christmas Dinner be made by Dec. 5.

The club voted to assist in making Christmas arrangements for the Clarke-May Museum as a community project. Members are being asked to bring a donation to the December meeting to buy coupon books for residents of Chillicothe Veteran's Hospital. The donation will take the place of the regular gift. The store window at Pumpkin Show sponsored by the club won third place. Mrs. Bernard Savy and Mrs. Hal Dickinson did the decorating.

The program on dried arrangements was given by Mrs. Schubert Measamer. She demonstrated how to dry flowers in silica gel for arrangements. Mrs. Measamer and Mrs. Savy demonstrated several artistic arrangements. Mrs. Luther Bower, Mrs. George Haney, Mrs. Robert Rickerd, Mrs. Turney Pontius and Mrs. Dean Sells shared dried arrangements they had brought to the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Thomas Crawford, Mrs. Theodore Huston, Mrs. Oscar Root, Mrs. Ben Gordon and Mrs. Karl Seyfarth to 25 members and one guest, Mrs. O.C. West.

Easter Seal Society Plans Basketball Game

The November meeting of Pickaway County Easter Seal Society was held recently at headquarters with Carolyn Daub presiding.

Plans were discussed for a Donkey Basketball Game the society is sponsoring on Jan. 22. The 1977 campaign was also discussed. The slogan for the 1977 campaign is "Money Walks" with Michael Landon as national chairman and Jimmy Crum the state chairman.

Equipment provided during the month included one hospital bed, one hospital table, two wheelchairs, one commode chair, two leg supports and filled one order of medication.

Mrs. John Radcliff, president of Circleville Junior Women's Club read the proclamation establishing the week of Nov. 21, as Family Week for the town of Circleville at a recent club meeting.

The proclamation reads: Whereas, the modern family is subject to changing roles and stresses that tear at family bonds.

Whereas, Circleville Junior Women feel that a time should be set aside to emphasize the value of strong family ties and the satisfactions of personal and community friendships.

Whereas, National Family Week sets aside the week of Thanksgiving as seven days of family consideration and appreciations as follows: Sunday, religion day, attendance of religious services. Monday, home day, focus on the privilege, duty and responsibility parent and child have one to the other.

Brunch Bunch Meets To Elect New Officers

The Brunch Bunch Homemakers Extension Club met Wednesday at the home of Janice Jones, Route 4, for a business meeting and election of officers. Ann Morehart was welcomed as a new member.

Leading the club for the coming year will be: Cindy Karshner, president; Sue Ward, secretary-treasurer; Janice Jones, news reporter and Sue Ward, representative to Home Council.

Dee Dawson showed the film "I Love You Frank" and led a discussion of the story.

Drying Flowers Program For Garden Club

Pickaway County Garden Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Karl Seyfarth, Woodlane. Mrs. Howard Davies presided at the business meeting.

Mrs. George Haney reminded members that dues are payable by December 1. Mrs. Calvin Danford asked for reservations for the progressive Christmas Dinner be made by Dec. 5.

The club voted to assist in making Christmas arrangements for the Clarke-May Museum as a community project. Members are being asked to bring a donation to the December meeting to buy coupon books for residents of Chillicothe Veteran's Hospital. The donation will take the place of the regular gift. The store window at Pumpkin Show sponsored by the club won third place. Mrs. Bernard Savey and Mrs. Hal Dickinson did the decorating.

The program on dried arrangements was given by Mrs. Schubert Measamer. She demonstrated how to dry flowers in silica gel for arrangements. Mrs. Measamer and Mrs. Savey demonstrated several artistic arrangements. Mrs. Luther Bower, Mrs. George Haney, Mrs. Robert Rickerd, Mrs. Turney Pontius and Mrs. Dean Sells shared dried arrangements they had brought to the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Thomas Crawford, Mrs. Theodore Huston, Mrs. Oscar Root, Mrs. Ben Gordon and Mrs. Karl Seyfarth to 25 members and one guest, Mrs. O.C. West.

JUNIOR LEADERS — The class officers for Westfall's Junior Class are; Jack Myers, president; Crystal Metzger, vice president; Teri Meyers, secretary and Julie Ogle, treasurer.

Juniors Prepare For Prom

By DEBBIE BOYER

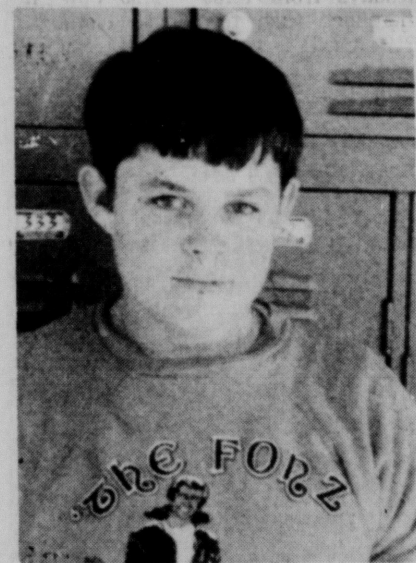

The Junior Class this year is very busy preparing for the prom.

Heading our hardworking class is our president, Jack Myers. Jack, 16, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Myers Sr. He resides at 525 North Court Street in Circleville. Jack is on the annual staff and is a very active band member. He also enjoys listening to Maynard Ferguson. When asked his comment on being elected president, Jack replied, "I think the class has great potential. I also enjoy working with the rest of the great people at Westfall."

Crystal Metzger, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Metzger, is the vice-president of the Junior Class. She lives at 425 South Water Street. Crystal is active in volleyball, basketball, softball, and cheerleading. She also enjoys sewing and riding her motorcycle. Crystal said, "I am going to do my best to help make the class of '78 the best class here at Westfall."

This year's secretary is Teri Meyers, daughter of Mrs. Martha Meyers. Teri, 16, resides at 202 Park Drive, Orient. Teri is active in vocal music, French, and Annual Staff. She also enjoys singing, dancing, piano,

Vocational Agriculture Teacher New

DAN CRYDER

By JO CAROL HAWKES

"W.H.S. is a very nice school with many extraordinary students and they have made me feel welcome and useful," was the reply of Dan Cryder, Westfall's new vocational agriculture teacher.

Dan Cryder resides at Route 2, Kingston and enjoys football, basketball, baseball, golf and tennis.

A graduate of Zane Trace High School in 1969, Cryder graduated from Ohio State University in 1974, with dual majors in agricultural economics and agricultural education.

and sports. Teri commented that, "As secretary of the Junior Class, I am proud to represent my class, because I enjoy making myself heard and do so expressively."

Julie Ogle, 16, is the treasurer of the Junior Class. She resides at 13090 Crownover Mill Road with her parents, Ned and Martha Ogle. Julie is a flag carrier in the band. She also enjoys horseback riding, skating, sewing, and basketball. Julie's comment was, "I have been treasurer of our class for the past three years, and I'm really proud to represent our class."

Corps Advisor Proud Of Girls

MISS RITA INGMAN

By EMILIE CALDWELL

Miss Rita Ingman said "It has been as much a pleasure as it has been work, being Flag Corps Advisor. I am very proud of the fact Westfall's Flag Corps, being its second year, received a trophy for being Outstanding Flag Corps at West Jefferson Marching Band Competition."

Hard working girls, long hours of concentrated practice, sharp uniforms, good routines, a lot of snap, and an over-all general effect that adds continually to the excitement of the band show are many of the things needed to be a successful Flag Corps.

Miss Ingman is a 1971 graduate of Westfall High School and a 1975 graduate of Murry State University. While at Murry, she was a member of the University Marching Band, Wind Sinfonetta, and Accapella Choir in which she toured Europe in 1973, with the Choir.

Her duties at WHS include teaching general music at Monroe, being Jr. High Band Director, assistant High School Band Director, and advisor for the Flag Corps.

"As a first year advisor, I could not have had a greater group of girls," commented Miss Ingman.

Future Nurses Club Keeps Busy

By BRENDA PUCKETT

The Future Nurses of America Club is planning their year of activities which will include trips to colleges, hospitals, and Brooks Yates school for Christmas and Easter.

Last May the FNA Club elected officers for this year. Officers are: La Donna Ollom, president; Chris See, vice-president; Joy Bidwell, secretary; and Brenda Puckett, treasurer. The advisor is Mrs. Jacqueline Neff.

In October, the girls held a bake sale to raise money for Christmas gifts for Brooks Yates students.

Meetings are held every third Wednesday of each month and new members are still welcome.

India Delays Elections

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Indian Parliament completed today final passage of a bill to postpone national elections for the second time since Prime Minister Indira Gandhi proclaimed a state of emergency 17 months ago.

The upper house, over limited but vocal opposition, approved by voice vote a measure extending the life of the current Parliament for another year. The lower house approved the bill last week.

Passage of the measure, coming just a day after Parliament completed approval of a sweeping overhaul of India's democratic constitution, meant that India's 610 million people probably would not have a national vote until at least March 1978.

Four major non-Communist parties have been boycotting Parliament during its consideration of the latest measures. They contend that any threat to national security has been blown out of proportion to give the government an excuse to maintain rigid controls over the country's once lively democratic institutions.

BAND DIRECTOR — Mark Hosler, band director of the Marching Mustangs, displays the trophies his group has collected this year. This shows why the band is labeled "Pride of the Mustangs."

'Pride' Describes Mustang Band

By EMILIE CALDWELL

This year the Westfall Marching Band, under the direction of Mark Hosler, received, First place in Class B competition, a superior rating, and second runner up to the Grand Champion at West Jefferson Marching Band Competition, third place in Class C at Fairborn-Baker Competition and first place in Class C at the Westland Invitational.

"The band worked harder than they ever have before and as a result they did better than they did before," commented Hosler, a 1972 graduate of Westfall High School and a 1976 graduate of Ohio State University. While at Ohio State he played solo cornet for four years in the O.S.U. Marching Band and was also in the Concert Band. Last year he received the Most Inspirational Bandsman award and led the band onto the field for pre-game.

"We have definitely improved this season and are the 'Pride of the Mustangs.'"

Oil Field Still Good Until 2026

IRAN, Tex. (AP) — The Yates oil field, which already has produced more than 620 million barrels of oil, will last another half a century, Harold D. Hoopman, president of Marathon Oil Co. of Findlay, Ohio, says.
The West Texas field marked its 50th anniversary Thursday with a gathering by more than 1,000 persons in Pecos County to celebrate the discovery of the field on Oct. 28, 1926.
Hoopman said a recently initiated secondary recovery program would make possible the recovery of at least another 600 million barrels of oil in the next 50 years.
The daily production for the entire field had dropped to about 50,000 barrels of oil daily when the decision was made by the field's operators to initiate the recovery program.
That program put into operation three months ago increased the daily recovery to 100,000 barrels. Marathon is the operating company for the secondary program.
According to Hoopman, the potential of the Yates field would not have been realized if the principle operators had not agreed to cooperate in a state regulated conservation program.
"The conservation practices initiated in the Yates field have been put into practice in almost all of the nation's oil producing areas," Hoopman said.
Marathon's No. 30-H, one of the Yates field's more than 600 wells, was completed in 1927 and was capable of producing more than 200,000 barrels of oil per day, making it the largest well in the world at that time.
Almost all the field's wells were completed as flowing producers, and unlike wells in most of the fields in Texas, all are still flowing.

Tigers Wind Up With A Win

By BILL McGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

Bill Mogan scored three touchdowns and picked up 100 yards rushing to pace Circleville to a 42-0 win over visiting Hillsboro before a Band Parents Night crowd in the season finale.

It was a big win for the Tigers as it gave them a break-even season with a 5-5 overall mark and a 3-3 record in South Central Ohio League play.

Mogan smashed into paydirt on runs of 5, 4 and 1 yards. Tom McGuire also was a multiple scorer as he tallied on a 75-yard pass play and a fumble recovery in the endzone.

Harl Stevenson added the other touchdown when the speedy middle guard picked up a Hillsboro fumble and raced 10 yards into the money grass.

Richard Elsea also got into the scoring when the sophomore quarterback sent six straight extra point kicks sailing through the uprights.

It was a Circleville dominated game and may have been one of the best overall performances of the year for the Tigers.

They rolled up a total of 16 first downs to six for Hillsboro and the Tiger ground attack powered 285 yards with another 100 coming through the airlines.

The Indians picked up 89 yards rushing and added 28 via the pass route.

In addition to Mogan, Dave Marshall rambled for 68 yards, Mike Brudzinski rolled up 38, Joe Leahy added 31 and Greg Berrigan ripped off 20 to lead the ground game.

Brad Allison completed two of five passes, both to McGuire for a total of eight yards and completed two of three passes, including a 75-yard scoring strike to Tom McGuire.

100 yards.

"It was a big win for us as it gave us a break-even season and momentum to start the 1977 season with," Circleville coach Larry Cook stated. "I feel this was our most consistent performance of the season and our execution, both offensively and defensively, was very good."

"We had a chance to play everyone and got excellent performances from our seniors and some very promising performances from our sophomores and juniors who will be doing the job next year," Cook commented.

The Tigers scored on their very first series when Mogan slammed over from the 5-yard line to cap a 68-yard drive in nine plays. Elsea kicked the point and the Tigers led 7-0 with 6:06 left in the first quarter.

Circleville scored again on their next possession with 0:14 left in the quarter.

They marched 43 yards in eight plays with Mogan battling his way into the endzone for the final four yards.

On the third play of the second period the Indians fumbled on their own 10-yard line and Circleville's Stevenson picked up the loose ball and danced into paydirt.

With 3:31 remaining in the first half, McGuire broke over the middle and Allison hit him with a perfect pass. The Tiger end cut to the right sideline and played "Katy bar the door" for another score that covered 75 yards.

At the one minute mark of the second canto, Hillsboro attempted to punt from their own 33 but Berrigan broke through to block it and Mark Albright picked it up and carried to the Indians six before being pulled down.

Now Circleville was also battling the clock as there was only 30 seconds remaining in the half. They didn't bother with a huddle and moved faster than a playboy going to the reading of his rich uncle's will. They moved to the 1-yard line and on the third play the ball eluded the ball carrier and skipped into the endzone where McGuire covered it like ugly on an ape with no time left in the half. Once again Elsea's extra point kick was good and the Tigers led 35-0 at the half.

The Tigers took the second half kickoff and began a march that covered 63 yards in 12 plays and consumed almost six minutes on the clock. The drive was climaxed when Mogan scored his third touchdown of the night when he plunged over from the 1-yard stripe.

Coach Cook began to go to his bench and from there on in everyone saw action but the scoring was over for the night with the Tigers out in front 42-0.

A great defensive effort, led by Brad Allison, Brian Fath, Bill Mogan, Dave Marshall, Harl Stevenson, Todd Mancini, Art Davis and Mark Albright, kept the Indians in check most of the time.

It was an extra special treat at halftime when both the Hillsboro and Circleville marching bands put on a fine show. The Tiger band, under the direction of Allen Howcroft and assisted by Debbie Fannin, put forth a tremendous exhibition as they performed the OSU Script Ohio, tunes of Bowling Green, Kent State and Marshall and ended with the OU rendition of "Long Train Runnin'" — Just great!

Black Hawks End Caps Win String

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — When someone asks Coach Tom McVie if overconfidence led to a Washington defeat, it's easy to see that the Capitals are making progress in the National Hockey League.

And, McVie didn't even flinch when a newsman posed the question after the upstart Caps had their mini-winning streak snapped at three Friday night in a 5-4 loss to the Chicago Black Hawks.

"Maybe there was a little complacency involved," McVie said. "But not overconfidence. We haven't won anything yet."

The Caps, a third-year expansion team which had never won two straight games until the current streak, jumped to a 3-1 lead over Chicago on firstperiod goals by Guy Charron, Mike Lampman and Hartland Monahan.

The home crowd of 11,457, many wearing adhesive badges imploring, "More, more, we want 4," sensed another victory by the Caps.

The number four did come up, but it was a four-goal explosion in the second period by the Black Hawks which included short-handed goals by Jim Harrison and Pit Martin.

In the night's only other NHL game, the Atlanta Flames played to a 3-3 tie with the Cleveland Barons. In the World Hockey Association, the Phoenix Roadrunners defeated the New England Whalers 3-1 and the Houston Aeros stopped the San Diego Mariners 4-1.

Gene Swick of Toledo smashed the career total yardage record last season. His total was 8,074 yards running and passing.

Fourth Quarter Hurts Vikes

HEAVY TRAFFIC — John Sanders (40) starts into some heavy traffic as he rounds left end in last night's game against Wilmington. Clearing the way for the freshman back are Craig Ramey (44), and

A rip-roaring Wilmington fourth quarter spelled the difference in an otherwise close game at Viking Stadium Friday night, as the Vikes dropped the final 1976 football contest 42-22.

Until the fourth quarter both teams had traded touchdowns and displayed some very powerful offense. The Vikings showed in the first three quarters that they are a team to be reckoned with in the South Central Ohio League next season.

All three scores for the Hurricane in the final stanza were the result of key mistakes, rather than overall breakdowns. Viking head coach Dick Kidwell had stated earlier in the season that the Vikings were a sound football team if they didn't commit any mistakes.

Teays Valley scored the first time they got their hands on the pigskin. Taking the opening kickoff, they marched down to the five yard line, where the call went to Eugene Fields. The hard-charging senior smashed over for the tally, John Sanders chipped in two points on the conversion run, and it was "off to the races," as the Hurrarin Hurricane hurried down to the goal line after taking the Teays Valley kick. With 3:11 left in the first quarter, Bruce McKee lit up the board for Wilmington on a seven yard smash over his left side. Gary Williams added two points on the conversion.

With 9:17 blinking on the clock Wilmington struck again as Tom Walker dove over from a yard out. This time Williams booted the ball for a single point.

The Vikings "battered down the hatches" and sailed right into the teeth of the Hurricane. The clock read 4:00, the ball went to Craig Ramey, and the powerful fullback dove into the endzone from the one yard stripe. Quarterback Duane Keller found Eugene Fields with an aerial for the two point bonus. With the two-pointer, the Vikes carried a precious one point lead into the locker rooms for the intermission.

Wilmington struck first in the second half. The visitors handed the ball to Bruce McKee, and the fleet-foot cruise 25 yards for the tally. The extra point failed.

Teays Valley still refused to roll over. The Norsemen took the ball right down to the five yard line. With 3:34 blinking on the clock, Duane Keller faded back and fired a bullet to Lance

It was then that the Hurricane took advantage of Teays Valley's mistakes as McKee scored twice and Williams once for the Hurricane.

Twelve seniors played their final game in a Teays Valley uniform against the Hurricane. They set an example for their younger teammates, as several provided vocal support when not playing, and a few others refused to come out of the game when the bumps and bruises appeared.

accounted for the Aces' points. Foster plunged over from six yards out in the first period.

Marshall's tally came in the third period on an 85 yard gallop.

The Aces' offensive machine rolled up 383 yards, 357 of that coming on the ground. The Bulldogs had their machine working too, as they roamed the turf for 410 total yards with 334 of them coming on the ground.

Concerning the effort, head coach Jeff Arndt stated, "Mark Marshall and Rick Foster both played excellent offensive and defensive games. Marshall picked up 154 yards in 18 carries. That puts him at over 1,000 yards for the season. Foster had 95 yards in 18 carries which gives him over 700 yards for this season."

Like all other Ohio high schools, Friday's game marked the end of the 1976 season for the Aces.

Youngsters Keying Bengals Victories

CINCINNATI (AP) — A year ago the Dallas Cowboys did it.

This year, it's the Cincinnati Bengals.

The time-honored "book" says you can't win with rookies in the National Football League.

Dallas reached the Super Bowl last January with a dozen first-year players on its roster.

The Bengals, with their best shot at a Super Bowl in the club's nine year history, have one-upped the Cowboys in the youth movement.

Boosted by two straight excellent drafts, the AFC Central Division leaders have a total of 18 players—or half its squad—with less than two years experience. And a dozen of them are seeing front line duty.

"I'm not much of a believer in numbers," observes new coach Bill Johnson.

"Obviously you need a certain amount of maturity, but youth brings enthusiasm. And we have an enthusiastic team," said Johnson, who succeeded legendary Paul Brown.

Johnson has the Bengals off to a 7-2 start that threatens to end Pittsburgh's two-year reign as AFC Central Division kings.

A victory over the Houston Oilers Sunday at Riverfront Stadium would set up a winner-take-all showdown with Pittsburgh here on Nov. 28.

Brown, the 68-year-old master, may not run the sideline show anymore, but his keen judgement of football talent has helped stock Cincinnati for the future. Brown now serves as general manager.

Johnson calls the newcomers "an outstanding group" and terms the 1976 draft as a bumper crop.

Eleven rookies made the veteran squad, along with two first-year players who sat out 1975 on the disabled list.

"I can't say that we are surprised by all these new people. After all we look at them a long time before they play," said Johnson.

Excitement Pales For Mike Pruitt

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Browns' rookie running back Mike Pruitt has learned a great deal about playing in the National Football League since his initiation against the Pittsburgh Steelers two months ago.

"I'm not so excited like I used to be," said Pruitt, who may return to the starting lineup Sunday when the Browns host the Philadelphia Eagles.

"I'm taking it as it comes now, one step at a time," said Pruitt, who would like to forget his initial NFL stint when he fumbled twice in the second half to help give the Steelers a 31-14 come-from-behind victory over the Browns.

Hunter Courtesy Urged

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources' Division of Wildlife reminds outdoorsmen to be good sports as well as sportsmen during this year's hunting seasons.

"With several seasons already open and the upland game season scheduled to begin November 15, hunters are urged to maintain good hunter-farmer relations by respecting private property rights," said Dale Haney, Chief of the Wildlife Division.

Sportsmen should ask the landowner's permission before entering private property.

Haney said permission to use private land is a privilege, not a right, and applies to hunters, anglers and campers.

"For generations, farmers have shared the use of their land with sportsmen from urban areas who have only a few opportunities a year to get out and enjoy nature," Haney said. "Hunters are encouraged to establish a year-round relationship with the landowner to ensure hunting privileges in the future."

Hunters are urged to practice the rules of firearm safety and good hunter conduct and avoid areas where crops are located.

In an effort to assist both hunters and landowners and curb the number of trespassing incidents during the hunting season, game protectors and other Wildlife enforcement agents will patrol private and public hunting lands during the peak hunting days.

The Minnesota Twins entered the American League in 1961 after having been the Washington Senators.

Tigers Wind Up With A Win

By BILL McGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

Bill Mogan scored three touchdowns and picked up 100 yards rushing to pace Circleville to a 42-0 win over visiting Hillsboro before a Band Parents Night crowd in the season finale.

It was a big win for the Tigers as it gave them a break-even season with a 5-5 overall mark and a 3-3 record in South Central Ohio League play.

Mogan smashed into paydirt on runs of 5, 4 and 1 yards. Tom McGuire also was a multiple scorer as he tallied on a 75-yard pass play and a fumble recovery in the endzone.

Harl Stevenson added the other touchdown when the speedy middle guard picked up a Hillsboro fumble and raced 10 yards into the money grass.

Richard Elsea also got into the scoring when the sophomore quarterback sent six straight extra point kicks sailing through the uprights.

It was a Circleville dominated game and may have been one of the best overall performances of the year for the Tigers.

ALLISON ROLLS — Circleville's senior quarterback Brad Allison follows Todd Mancini for a gainer in the Tigers big win against Hillsboro Friday. Allison rushed for eight yards and completed two of three passes, including a 75-yard scoring strike to Tom McGuire.

They rolled up a total of 16 first downs to six for Hillsboro and the Tiger ground attack powered 285 yards with another 100 coming through the airlines.

The Indians picked up 89 yards rushing and added 28 via the pass route.

In addition to Mogan, Dave Marshall rambled for 68 yards, Mike Brudzinski rolled up 38, Joe Leahy added 31 and Greg Berrigan ripped off 20 to lead the ground game.

Brad Allison completed two of five passes, both to McGuire for a total of 100 yards. "It was a big win for us as it gave us a break-even season and momentum to start the 1977 season with," Circleville coach Larry Cook stated. "I feel this was our most consistent performance of the season and our execution, both offensively and defensively, was very good."

"We had a chance to play everyone and got excellent performances from our seniors and some very promising performances from our sophomores and juniors who will be doing the job next year," Cook commented.

The Tigers scored on their very first series when Mogan slammed over from the 5-yard line to cap a 68-yard drive in nine plays. Elsea kicked the point and the Tigers led 7-0 with 6:06 left in the first quarter.

Circleville scored again on their next possession with 0:14 left in the quarter.

They marched 43 yards in eight plays with Mogan battling his way into the endzone for the final four yards.

On the third play of the second period the Indians fumbled on their own 10-yard line and Circleville's Stevenson picked up the loose ball and 'danced into paydirt.'

With 3:31 remaining in the first half, McGuire broke over the middle and Allison hit him with a perfect pass. The Tiger end cut to the right sideline and played "Katy bar the door" for another score that covered 75 yards.

At the one minute mark of the second canto, Hillsboro attempted to punt from their own 33 but Berrigan broke through to block it and Mark Albright picked it up and carried to the Indians six before being pulled down.

Now Circleville was also battling the clock as there was only 30 seconds remaining in the half. They didn't bother with a huddle and moved faster than a playboy going to the reading of his rich uncle's will. Braves' Gamble Fails, 55-14 Pro Football Crunch Arrives

Logan Elm gambled with a secret weapon Friday and lost, 55-14, to visiting Pickerington, handing the Tigers the Mid State League football crown.

Pickerington had a perfect 10-0 season winning its first Mid State League football title ever. Logan Elm finished the season with a 2-5-1 season.

The Braves played the entire first half with an unorthodox run and shoot formation. The entire line and one back were positioned several yards to one side of the ball. Two backs were split wide to the other side of the field and the quarterback was positioned behind the center about 8 to 10 yards deep. The formation made the center an eligible pass receiver.

"We used the offense because we felt we could not move the ball inside on Pickerington," LE coach Bill Frost said. "They have a couple of 255 pound tackles and guards that were over 200 pounds while our heaviest starter on the line was 185."

"If we could have gotten that first score and if Rock Huggins hadn't had his ankle broken, it might have been different. It took a lot out of our kids when they learned about Rock's broken ankle," he said. "But if we had to play the game over I would use it again."

That setback for the Braves came on the first series of plays. The Braves were moving the ball with that weird formation, completing two passes and on a 24-yard scamper by quarterback Tony Crist.

Crist then threw a perfect strike to Huggins who was headed for the goal line when he was collared around the neck by one Pickerington Tiger and hit low by another inside the 10. But the play was for naught as the Braves had an ineligible receiver downfield.

The rest of the first half was nothing but a series of bad breaks for the Braves. Pickerington scored on two safeties and recovered three fumbles deep in Logan Elm territory and intercepted one pass enroute to a 42-0 halftime score.

The injury to Huggins was not the only one to hurt the Braves. They also lost Crist with a pulled hamstring and their punter Lynn Strehle with a bad muscle bruise in the first half.

But in spite of the adversities of the first half, the Braves came back in the second half with sophomore halfback Jim Weaver scoring two touchdowns on runs of 42 and 16 yards. Weaver carried the ball only three times in the game but was LE's leading ground-gainer with 62 yards from scrimmage. He also returned a kickoff return of 43 yards that set up his first score. The Braves were successful on a two-point conversion after that TD, a pass from quarterback Tim Davis to end Bruce Hannigan.

For Pickerington, Kevin Persons ran for two touchdowns, two yards and one yard, quarterback Keith Kristoff pass for three, 12 yards to Christ Tippie, 15 yards to Dave Noble and nine yards to Rob Hammond, Harold Auten ran 40 yards for a score, Dave Russell ran three and Joe Koon seven.

Terry Griffith booted three extra points.

Jeff Moore was the leading ground-gainer for the winners, picking up a total of 79 yards.

After their first touchdown of the second half, the Pickerington coaching staff substituted freely.

The Braves played the last two games of the season without senior ace running back Tim Justus who sustained a severe knee injury in the Bloom Carroll game.

Other seniors on the Logan Elm squad are Oscar Allen, Steve Bowling, Willard Faulk, Tom Davis, Bill Leist, Rick McCain, John Scanlan, Tim Davis, Dave Kerns and Dave Calton.

It still is five games until the end of the season—but the crunch is here. That is the pressure faced by National Football League teams facing early extinction. If someone had suggested nine weeks ago, when the season started, that Pittsburgh and Miami would be among those teams in such a precarious position, he probably would have been greeted with laughter.

Yet that is just what the Steelers and Dolphins face Sunday when they face each other in Pittsburgh—and for one of them, the season may well come to a premature end with a loss.

In Sunday's other games, it will be New England at Baltimore, Houston at Cincinnati, Philadelphia at Cleveland, St. Louis at Los Angeles, San Francisco at Atlanta, Seattle at Minnesota, Kansas City at Oakland, Washington at the New York Giants, Tampa Bay at the New York Jets, Green Bay at Chicago, Detroit at New Orleans and Denver at San Diego. Monday night's game is Buffalo at Dallas.

"We just have to keep going and hope for the best," said Coach Chuck Noll, whose Steelers have shaken their early season slump and won four straight games, their last three by shutouts, tying an NFL record.

"We said at the halfway point that every game was a 'must' game. This one really highlights that," said Coach Don Shula, whose Dolphins also have recovered from early setbacks and take a three-game winning streak into Pittsburgh.

But for both of these two-time Super Bowl winners, one more false step could be their last. Each is 5-4 and trailing in its division, the Steelers two games behind Cincinnati in the American Conference's Central Division and the Dolphins three back of Baltimore in the AFC East. The Steelers never have beaten Miami.

Division titles still are a possibility, but a wild-card playoff berth seems a more realistic target. And with New England at 6-3 and Denver and Cleveland at 5-4, a battle is shaping up.

Meanwhile, the Patriots face a Baltimore team threatening to make a runaway of the AFC East race. The Colts, who beat New England 27-13 in the season opener, have the No. 1 offense in the league.

The Bengals, too, have a chance to cement their lead. And they have the conference's No. 1 defense. Houston's bright preseason hopes have crumbled with four straight losses.

St. Louis and Los Angeles, facing each other, also face must games of a sort. The Cards, trailing by one game in the National Conference East, are trying to stay within striking distance of Dallas, while the Rams, coming off last Monday night's loss at Cincinnati, are trying to retain their slender half-game edge over San Francisco in the NFC West.

The Vikings, in the NFC Central, and Raiders, in the AFC West, can take additional steps toward what seem to be almost certain titles. The Giants and Buccaneers, meanwhile, still are trying to take their first steps and get in the win column.

Candidates Split Commission Term

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — Citing the $25,000 cost of another election, the two candidates who tied for Delaware County commissioner Nov. 2 agreed on a settlement Thursday. Democratic incumbent Mettie Leach and Republican Clyde Edwards decided each will serve one-half the four-year term. Mrs. Leach will go first. Each received 23,394 votes.

Texas Aggies Face Razorbacks

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

College football quiz:

—Which team did Arkansas beat to give Frank Broyles his first victory as the Razorbacks' head coach in 1958?

—Which team was 10-0 a year ago and dreaming of a national championship when it ran into Arkansas ... and finished 10-2?

—Which team did Arkansas play Saturday?

The answer to all three is Texas A&M.

Arkansas was ranked 13th, Texas A&M 16th and Broyles said anyone tuning in the nationally televised Southwest Conference game in Little Rock would see "one of the best football teams in America."

He said he meant the Aggies, who up there a year ago, too, until meeting Arkansas in the regular-season finale and losing 31-6.

Arkansas dropped out of a tie for the conference lead last week after a 7-7 tie with Baylor. The Razorbacks must win every remaining game—just as they did a year ago—to return to the Cotton Bowl.

Fifth-ranked Texas Tech, which led Arkansas by one-half game, was entertaining Southern Methodist. Since replacing injured Tommy Duniven at quarterback, Rodney Allison had answered his critics by completing 40 of 71 passes for 801 yards, including touchdown bombs of 69 and 88 yards.

On the national scene, Pitt made its debut as the No. 1-ranked team by entertaining West Virginia.

With two regular-season games remaining, recordbreaking Tony Dorsett needed 341 yards rushing to reach the 6,000-yard mark, 357 to break Ed Marinaro's single-season major college mark of 1,881.

Meanwhile, second-ranked UCLA visited Oregon State, while No. 3 Southern Cal, tied with the Bruins atop the Pacific-8 Conference, was at home against Washington. Michigan, down from No. 1 to No. 4 in The Associated Press ratings following last week's upset by Purdue, entertained Illinois.

The rest of the Top Ten found Clemson at sixth-ranked Maryland, which was after its third straight Atlantic Coast Conference crown; No. 7 Georgia at Auburn, as the Bulldogs sought to clinch a Sugar Bowl berth; No. 8 Ohio State—tied with Michigan for the Big Ten lead—at Minnesota; No. 9 Nebraska, the Big Eight leader, at Iowa State, and No. 10 Alabama at No. 18 Notre Dame.

In the Second Ten, it was No. 11

Kellytuck Amy Wins Feature At Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Kellytuck Amy emerged the winner in a four horse photo finish in the featured pace mile in the ninth race at Latonia Friday night.

The winner paid $10.20, $4.60 and $4. Peggy Lee Direct was second, $6.20 and $5 and Didley Do McShu, third, $6.40. Cape Hope was fourth but out of the money. All seven pacers finished within two lengths of the winner.

Miss Peggy O' Dale combined 6-4 in the daily double with Flashy Baroness for $89.80 and the crowd of 1,340 wagered $145,137.

Yankee relief pitcher Dick Tidrow entered an early September game in Yankee Stadium with the bases loaded with Boston Red Sox and none out. He retired the side on two pitches. One pitch brought a double play, the other an outfield fly. No runs scored that inning.

Missouri at No. 14 Oklahoma, No. 15 Florida at Kentucky, No. 17 Oklahoma State at Kansas State, Kansas at No. 19 Colorado, and Wake Forest at No. 20 South Carolina. Twelfth-ranked Houston was idle.

All games involving the Top Twenty were afternoon contests. The night schedule finds Rutgers at Tulane, Southwestern Louisiana at Northwestern Louisiana, Memphis State at Louisville, Penn State at Miami, Fla., Marshall at Toledo, Indiana State at Wichita State, Northeast Louisiana at West Texas State, Colorado State at Arizona, Utah at Arizona State, New Mexico State at Fresno State, Montana State at Hawaii, Montana at Idaho, Fullerton State at Long Beach State, Brigham Young at New Mexico, Utah State at San Diego State and Wyoming at Texas-El Paso.

Braves' Gamble Fails, 55-14 Pro Football Crunch Arrives

Logan Elm gambled with a secret weapon Friday and lost, 55-14, to visiting Pickerington, handing the Tigers the Mid State League football crown.

Pickerington had a perfect 10-0 season winning its first Mid State League football title ever. Logan Elm finished the season with a 2-5-1 season.

The Braves played the entire first half with an unorthodox run and shoot formation. The entire line and one back were positioned several yards to one side of the ball. Two backs were split wide to the other side of the field and the quarterback was positioned behind the center about 8 to 10 yards deep. The formation made the center an eligible pass receiver.

"We used the offense because we felt we could not move the ball inside on Pickerington," LE coach Bill Frost said. "They have a couple of 255 pound tackles and guards that were over 200 pounds while our heaviest starter on the line was 185."

"If we could have gotten that first score and if Rock Huggins hadn't had his ankle broken, it might have been different. It took a lot out of our kids when they learned about Rock's broken ankle," he said. "But if we had to play the game over I would use it again."

That setback for the Braves came on the first series of plays. The Braves were moving the ball with that weird formation, completing two passes and on a 24-yard scamper by quarterback Tony Crist.

Crist then threw a perfect strike to Huggins who was headed for the goal line when he was collared around the neck by one Pickerington Tiger and hit low by another inside the 10. But the play was for naught as the Braves had an ineligible receiver downfield.

The rest of the first half was nothing but a series of bad breaks for the Braves. Pickerington scored on two safeties and recovered three fumbles deep in Logan Elm territory and intercepted one pass enroute to a 42-0 halftime score.

The injury to Huggins was not the only one to hurt the Braves. They also lost Crist with a pulled hamstring and their punter Lynn Strehle with a bad muscle bruise in the first half.

But in spite of the adversities of the first half, the Braves came back in the second half with sophomore halfback Jim Weaver scoring two touchdowns on runs of 42 and 16 yards. Weaver carried the ball only three times in the game but was LE's leading ground-gainer with 62 yards from scrimmage. He also returned a kickoff return of 43 yards that set up his first score. The Braves were successful on a two-point conversion after that TD, a pass from quarterback Tim Davis to end Bruce Hannigan.

For Pickerington, Kevin Persons ran for two touchdowns, two yards and one yard, quarterback Keith Kristoff pass for three, 12 yards to Christ Tippie, 15 yards to Dave Noble and nine yards to Rob Hammond, Harold Auten ran 40 yards for a score, Dave Russell ran three and Joe Koon seven.

Terry Griffith booted three extra points.

Jeff Moore was the leading ground-gainer for the winners, picking up a total of 79 yards.

After their first touchdown of the second half, the Pickerington coaching staff substituted freely.

The Braves played the last two games of the season without senior ace running back Tim Justus who sustained a severe knee injury in the Bloom Carroll game.

Other seniors on the Logan Elm squad are Oscar Allen, Steve Bowling, Willard Faulk, Tom Davis, Bill Leist, Rick McCain, John Scanlan, Tim Davis, Dave Kerns and Dave Calton.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): If it should become necessary to sacrifice some leisure time to business activities, don't chafe. Results will more than make up for your disappointment.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A clash of temperaments could cause friction. Don't jeopardize a warm friendship by insisting, needlessly, on your own way.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Be alert to intricacies if several persons are involved in your activities but don't overlook your own intuitive faculties in coping.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Not all you look at will be as you see it. Ask someone else what he thinks of matters and you will view a whole new picture.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Your imagination stimulated, but don't go to extremes in anything. Be especially careful on the social front where you COULD overtax yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Certain offerings will be attractive; others out of line. All should be investigated thoroughly. Don't mix business with pleasure unwisely.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): If someone suggests a new idea, give it a chance — but not at the cost of reputation or at the expense of valuable time. Head up!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Fine aspects give a lift to your personality, help you to spur activities to a lively pace. It's a day for achievement. Just one admonition: Be careful in whom you confide.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Carry on with matters now pending, and don't delay your progress by going off on tangents. You may have a tendency toward restlessness now, but try to curb it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Needed now: patience in home and family matters, perseverance in work.

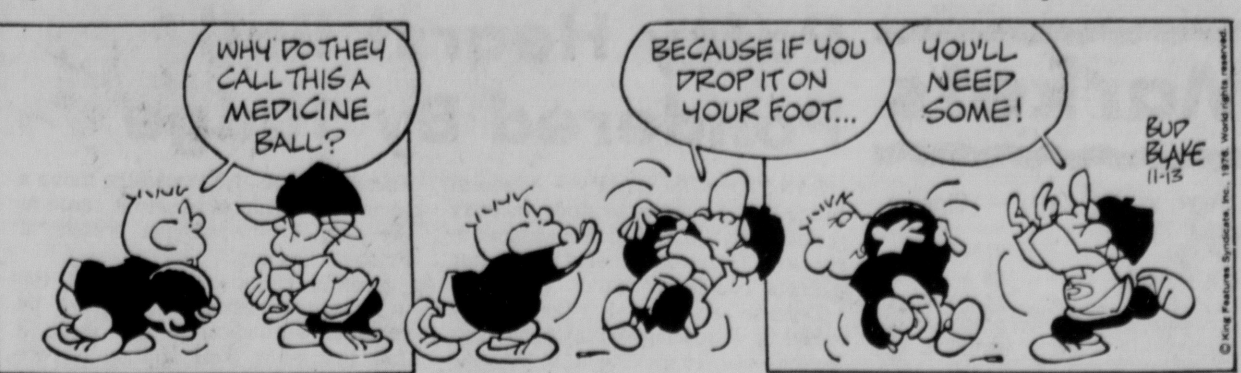

numrum tasks. Emphasize your philosophical side.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You can achieve much if you go about things in the right way — and with confidence. There may be a hitch at times but, generally, you can steer things as you wish.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Even though your planetary influences are fairly good, it will take more than average patience and skill to keep some matters in jeopardy. But you CAN do it.

YOU BORN TODAY ARE, in some ways, a dual personality. You have an extremely frivolous side which, if you emphasize, could lead to bohemianism and a complete waste of your many talents. On the other hand, there's the serious side which, if developed along with your fine abilities, could bring you to top-flight success. You could shine in the world of science — especially in medicine, chemistry, mineralogy or engineering. But you also have creative inclinations and may take up art or music as a career. Birthdate of: Charles Lyell, geologist; Prince Charles, of England.

Buyer Sought For Tank Plant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state of Ohio will work with the U.S. General Services Administration to find a buyer for the Brook Park tank plant, said James A. Duerk, state development director.

The facility is 2.5 million square feet of plant space that has air and rail transportation adjacent to the site. It is located on 175 acres of land near the Cleveland Hopkins Airport.

The General Services Administration announced Friday that it is being put up for sale by open bid with bids to be opened May 27 in Chicago.

It was considered by Volkswagen as a possible site to use when the automaker went into production in the United States.

Patty Hearst Bail Pondered By Judge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge says he wants to study security precautions before deciding whether to release Patricia Hearst into her parents' custody on bail.

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey asked at a hearing Friday that Miss Hearst, who is serving a seven-year prison sentence for armed bank robbery, be freed on bail pending appeal for a new trial.

He said that if the newspaper heiress were sent home to the parents she rejected during her months as a radical activist, she would be placed under tight security to protect her from potential enemies in the underground.

Bailey said psychiatric and prison reports support his contention that Miss Hearst is neither a menace to society nor likely to flee.

But U.S. Atty. James L. Browning, who admitted after the hearing that bail is a likely possibility, said Miss Hearst is more of a flight risk than she was after her arrest in September 1975.

"Now she's been convicted and sentenced," he said. "And any person facing prison is more likely to flee."

Bailey promised that a detailed plan using federal marshals, or marshals and private guards provided by the Hearsts, would be given to U.S. District Court Judge William H. Orrick early next week. Orrick sentenced Miss Hearst in September.

"Before I rule on the bail motion, I want to review any plan for security," the judge stressed during a 90-minute hearing on defense requests for bail and the new trial. He didn't indicate when he might rule on either issue.

Already on file are affidavits from Randolph and Catherine Hearst stating that they are ready to assume financial responsibility for round-the-clock security to protect their daughter.

Bailey said security was needed because of numerous threats against his 22-year-old client, potentially a "willing witness" against her former companions in the Symbionese Liberation Army. She remained with the SLA 18 months after she was kidnapped by the terrorist group Feb. 4, 1974.

Miss Hearst, who has served 13 months of her sentence for an April 15, 1974, bank robbery, was transferred from the youth corrections facility at Pleasanton, Calif., to solitary confinement at a San Diego federal prison.

Legal Snag Hits State Money Pool

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A legal snag has threatened the state's new Total Operating Fund and raised the spectre of an $80 million shortage in accounts to pay November bills, according to Budget Director William W. Wilkins.

Wilkins said Friday he had received an opinion from Atty. Gen. William J. Brown advising that the Ohio Constitution barred the use of the Highway Operating Fund and Highway Safety fund in the consolidated fund plan.

The Total Operating Fund, a pooling of healthy state accounts that was to include the highway money, was devised in September as a method to solve Ohio's "cash flow problem." The fund also includes liquor and lottery money, to be used in emergencies when periods of low state income make it difficult to meet routine fiscal obligations.

"I don't know what I am going to do yet," Wilkins said. "We're short about $80 million. We don't have enough to pay our bills this month."

The budget chief said he might be forced to ask the state Controlling Board for authority to delay November school subsidy payments to shore up the state treasury. It would come at a time when some school districts are counting pennies to the end of the year when new state aid becomes available and schools are permitted to borrow additional funds.

First Asst. Atty. Gen. Michael Szolosi said the legal opinion could still permit use of some monies in the two highway funds which include license fee money, motor fuel and axle mile tax revenue and some federal funds. In general, the constitution indicates that the highway money should be used only for highway purposes.

Wilkins said he had taken available funding into consideration in making the $80 million estimate. The total amount of pooled money varies with the ebb and flow of revenue from various sources.

Opinions from the attorney general, while not legally binding, are usually honored by state officials. Backers of the pooled fund concept could go to court to test the legality of using the highway money.

Legion Membership Drive Scheduled

This Sunday is the last chance to receive the "Early Bird" card for American Legion membership. The card will be given on the spot to all renewed members.

Free refreshments will be available to all members holding their "Early Bird" card. All interested persons are invited to the American Legion Hall on U.S. Route 23 South. The drive will be from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Tuesday. Officials termed the move a security measure and said it came at her request. She was not present at Friday's hearing.

Even if Orrick grants her bail, the newspaper heiress would not be released immediately. She faces a Jan. 10 trial on state charges of robbery, kidnap and assault in connection with a holdup and shooting at a Los Angeles sporting goods store. Bail in that case has been set at $500,000, which the defense says it will try to have reduced.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There is little relief in sight from the premature November cold in Ohio. Temperatures were to warm to the upper 30s and lower 40s today, dropping back to the 20s again tonight.

As long as the weather map is dominated by high pressure in the center of the country the northwesterly winds to the east of it can only bring in cold air. Sunday may see a slight improvement with readings in the middle to lower 40s. These readings will still be about 10 degrees cooler than normal for mid November.

Skies cleared over much of the state Friday night, and temperatures fell to record and near record lows in some areas. Cincinnati's Lunken Airport dropped to 20 degrees while Greater Cincinnati Airport reached 15 degrees. Previous records were in the middle 20s.

Findlay tied a record low of 22 degrees set in 1947.

Cloudiness persisted through the night over northeastern counties. As a result temperatures held in the middle and upper 20s. The cloudy skies also brought scattered snow flurries throughout the night.

Boy, 10, Held In Shooting Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — A 10-year-old Forest Park boy frightened residents of his suburban neighborhood Friday afternoon by firing three shots at a dog and one at a crowded school yard during afternoon recess.

The boy was released to the custody of his parents by police who charged him with juvenile delinquency, aggravated burglary, discharging firearms and cruelty to animals.

"He is too young to have developed a pattern," said Police Lt. Steve Vollmar, adding that social agencies had been called into the case.

"But you know this could develop into a really serious situation. We are making a real concentrated community effort to work with this juvenile," Vollmar said.

Defendant Favored In Common Pleas

A jury trial in the court of Common Pleas Judge William Ammer, involving a two car automobile accident, was granted in favor of the defendant Friday.

The accident, involving plaintiff, Evelyn Hoskins, Columbus and defendant Wendell M. Upchurch Jr., New Concord, was a collision on U.S. Route 23 north. The vehicles of the plaintiff and four passengers and Upchurch collided on the median strip, near the intersection of S.R. 762, on Sept. 21, 1975.

The jury, after one hour of deliberation, reached a verdict for defendant Upchurch.

Jurors were Naomi M. Hay, Violet M. Duffey, Judith L. Bennington, Grace Dumm, Laura M. Wynkoop, Barbara J. Gerhardt, Charlotte E. Hill and Joseph E. Goeller II.

Deaf Mute Acquitted In Murder Trial

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Asked what he was going to do, now that he had been acquitted of a murder charge, James Robert Hunt said through a translator: "Pack up and go home."

Hunt, a 24-year-old deaf mute, was free for the first time in 32 months. Declared an incompetent when first arrested for the murder of a neighbor woman, Hunt spent more than two years in a state mental hospital being taught sign language to assist in his defense.

When he finally was brought to trial, the court appointed two translators to interpret court proceedings for him.

A seven-man, five-woman Ross County Common Pleas Court jury deliberated four hours Friday before returning the innocent verdict.

Hunt was accused of the March 1974 beating death of Ruth Norleen Arledge, 56, whose body was found in Tar Hollow State Forest north of here.

The prosecution contended a fingerprint of Hunt found on the inside window of Mrs. Arledge's car placed him at the murder scene. But Hunt's mother testified her son did odd jobs for Mrs. Arledge and had ridden in her car as recently as two or three weeks before the killing.

State testimony came primarily from agents of the state Bureau of Identification and Investigation (BCI) and county sheriff's deputies.

The prosecution introduced as evidence a blood-stained pair of trousers belonging to Hunt, but the defense brought out that both Hunt and the murder victim had the same type blood.

And on cross-examination by the defense, a BCI agent conceded that the fingerprint could have been on the car window for a rather lengthy period of time, and Mark Gilbert, a BCI microanalyst, disclosed that mud found on Hunt's boots did not match samples of soil taken from the place where the murdered woman's body was found.

Legion Membership Drive Scheduled

This Sunday is the last chance to receive the "Early Bird" card for American Legion membership. The card will be given on the spot to all renewed members.

Free refreshments will be available to all members holding their "Early Bird" card. All interested persons are invited to the American Legion Hall on U.S. Route 23 South. The drive will be from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Tuesday. Officials termed the move a security measure and said it came at her request. She was not present at Friday's hearing.

Even if Orrick grants her bail, the newspaper heiress would not be released immediately. She faces a Jan. 10 trial on state charges of robbery, kidnap and assault in connection with a holdup and shooting at a Los Angeles sporting goods store. Bail in that case has been set at $500,000, which the defense says it will try to have reduced.

There is little relief in sight from the premature November cold in Ohio. Temperatures were to warm to the upper 30s and lower 40s today, dropping back to the 20s again tonight.

As long as the weather map is dominated by high pressure in the center of the country the northwesterly winds to the east of it can only bring in cold air. Sunday may see a slight improvement with readings in the middle to lower 40s. These readings will still be about 10 degrees cooler than normal for mid November.

Skies cleared over much of the state Friday night, and temperatures fell to record and near record lows in some areas. Cincinnati's Lunken Airport dropped to 20 degrees while Greater Cincinnati Airport reached 15 degrees. Previous records were in the middle 20s.

Findlay tied a record low of 22 degrees set in 1947.

Cloudiness persisted through the night over northeastern counties. As a result temperatures held in the middle and upper 20s. The cloudy skies also brought scattered snow flurries throughout the night.

Boy, 10, Held In Shooting Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — A 10-year-old Forest Park boy frightened residents of his suburban neighborhood Friday afternoon by firing three shots at a dog and one at a crowded school yard during afternoon recess.

The boy was released to the custody of his parents by police who charged him with juvenile delinquency, aggravated burglary, discharging firearms and cruelty to animals.

"He is too young to have developed a pattern," said Police Lt. Steve Vollmar, adding that social agencies had been called into the case.

"But you know this could develop into a really serious situation. We are making a real concentrated community effort to work with this juvenile," Vollmar said.

Defendant Favored In Common Pleas

A jury trial in the court of Common Pleas Judge William Ammer, involving a two car automobile accident, was granted in favor of the defendant Friday.

The accident, involving plaintiff, Evelyn Hoskins, Columbus and defendant Wendell M. Upchurch Jr., New Concord, was a collision on U.S. Route 23 north. The vehicles of the plaintiff and four passengers and Upchurch collided on the median strip, near the intersection of S.R. 762, on Sept. 21, 1975.

The jury, after one hour of deliberation, reached a verdict for defendant Upchurch.

Jurors were Naomi M. Hay, Violet M. Duffey, Judith L. Bennington, Grace Dumm, Laura M. Wynkoop, Barbara J. Gerhardt, Charlotte E. Hill and Joseph E. Goeller II.

Deaf Mute Acquitted In Murder Trial

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Asked what he was going to do, now that he had been acquitted of a murder charge, James Robert Hunt said through a translator: "Pack up and go home."

Hunt, a 24-year-old deaf mute, was free for the first time in 32 months.

Declared an incompetent when first arrested for the murder of a neighbor woman, Hunt spent more than two years in a state mental hospital being taught sign language to assist in his defense.

When he finally was brought to trial, the court appointed two translators to interpret court proceedings for him.

A seven-man, five-woman Ross County Common Pleas Court jury deliberated four hours Friday before returning the innocent verdict.

Hunt was accused of the March 1974 beating death of Ruth Norleen Arledge, 56, whose body was found in Tar Hollow State Forest north of here.

The prosecution contended a fingerprint of Hunt found on the inside window of Mrs. Arledge's car placed him at the murder scene. But Hunt's mother testified her son did odd jobs for Mrs. Arledge and had ridden in her car as recently as two or three weeks before the killing.

State testimony came primarily from agents of the state Bureau of Identification and Investigation (BCI) and county sheriff's deputies.

The prosecution introduced as evidence a blood-stained pair of trousers belonging to Hunt, but the defense brought out that both Hunt and the murder victim had the same type blood.

And on cross-examination by the defense, a BCI agent conceded that the fingerprint could have been on the car window for a rather lengthy period of time, and Mark Gilbert, a BCI microanalyst, disclosed that mud found on Hunt's boots did not match samples of soil taken from the place where the murdered woman's body was found.
